

LIVE EACH DAY AS A NEW LIFE

TOPIC: LIFE IS TODAY

Q: What is life in reality?

A: Life is a beautiful journey from our first breath till the ultimate moment of death. We arrive on this planet, a unique world of peace, love and bliss. Each of us lives but neither do we have control over how, when and where we are born, nor do we control when we will be gone. However, while there is no control over our arrival and departure, we have been blessed with the willpower to live and to choose what we want to do. Life is not understood by most of us. We don't understand the simple truth of who we are and why we are here.

Q: Why is Today the only time we can truly live?

A: We cannot go back and change Yesterday. If somebody offers us millions or even billions, it is impossible for us to relive what is already done. We cannot go into a future that is not yet born. Just as it is impossible to go into Yesterday, it is not possible to go to Tomorrow too. Why then do we worry about Tomorrow? It is because of the mind. We can only live in Today. Life is made up of many Today's, not Yesterdays and Tomorrows. Therefore, when life is over Today, for all practical reasons, life is over.

Q: How is life different from money?

A: Life is very different when compared to money which we can save in a bank. We cannot save our minutes or days in a bank to be reused later. If we don't use a minute, we lose it. So it is with every day. Little do we realize that we have lost so many days and by doing so, we have lost life itself. We worry about Yesterday and Tomorrow and fill our life with misery and sorrow. We don't realize that we are wasting life. Life is about Today. We can only live in Today.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 2: We Can Only Live In Today, Page 12

Q: What does it mean to say life is made up of days?

A: The truth is that we cannot live life as a chunk of 7 decades. The first decade escapes as a child. In the second decade, we learn. But thereafter, life unfolds year by year. Each year has 12 months, 365 days, and the truth is that life unfolds day by day. We forget that life is this day that we are alive. Those who realize that life is about Today, grab hold of each day. They live life moment by moment. They are the ones who truly live life. By living life day by day, not only do they make each day amazing but their life also becomes amazing.

Q: Why is Today called a 'present'?

A: We call Today the 'present'. It truly is! It's a present. It's a gift. But this gift has an expiry date — it expires Today. If we want to make the best of Today, we must do it now. Otherwise, Today will be gone, never to return. Each day is a new opportunity — an opportunity to be happy, blissful, peaceful and cheerful. We can't postpone that to a Tomorrow. Every day is a new gift to live. That is why we call it the 'present'. If we waste it, the gift is lost.

Q: What happens when Today is gone?

A: Do we realize that life will be over Today? It sounds strange but it is true. The mind tells us that life is not getting over Today — we have a long way to go. But the truth is, if Today is gone, life is gone! Tomorrow will be a new life. If we don't understand this, life will escape us. Life is made up of many Today's, not Yesterdays and Tomorrows. Therefore, when Today is over, for all practical reasons, life is over. Sure, another Today will be born but it will only be Today, with its 1440 minutes.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 13: Life Is About Today, Not Tomorrow, Page 43

Q: What is the truth about Tomorrow?

A: Whatever we imagine could happen Tomorrow may or may not happen — there is no guarantee! We may imagine going to some place, being with somebody or even travelling somewhere. As the date in the calendar changes, a new life unfolds. How often do we spend our day thinking, planning, scheming and dreaming of Tomorrow, next week, next month and next year? We go beyond to decades ahead when there is no guarantee of Tomorrow. Still, we live in Tomorrow. We are trying to build our Happiness in a future which is beyond our control. No Tomorrow is guaranteed but Today is.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 6: Can We Live In Tomorrow?, Page 23-24

Q: What is the biggest problem in life?

A: Before we realize it, we spend the whole day shuttling between Yesterday and Tomorrow. In the bargain, what happens to Today? It just disappears into nothingness! This is our biggest problem in life. Today is Today. It has nothing to do with Yesterday nor should it be controlled by Tomorrow. Today is a beautiful day and we must take charge of Today without the past or the future destroying it. The choice is ours. We can make Today exciting — a new life — or we can let the problems of Yesterday and the fears of Tomorrow take over our precious Today.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 7: Don't Wake Up In A Yesterday Or A Tomorrow, Page 27-28

Q: How should we think of each new day?

A: Every day is a birthday. Every day, we are born fresh. Every day, we are rejuvenated. Imagine waking up in the morning without any problems and challenges. Imagine that the day is free from all worries and anxieties. Imagine starting with a day that is clean, pure and fresh — then we can fill the day with whatever we truly like. Each day can be a new life if we start painting the canvas of each day without any stains or images of the past and future. Then we can take a palette of colours and splash it on the canvas.

Q: How does living in Today make life amazing?

A: Life can be amazing only if we make each day a new life. This is our greatest challenge. Whoever we are, whatever we do, if life is not renewed every day, we cannot make the best of this gift called life. Every day is a new opportunity. It is a new life to live. It is not the same as Yesterday — that is finished, it is gone. Today is not Tomorrow, for which we must worry and struggle. Today is fresh, new and completely different from the past and the future. That is why we must think of Today as a new life.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 8: Each Day Is A New Life — We Must Live It, Page 29

Q: What is the relationship between Today and the purpose of life?

A: What is life all about? Life has a purpose. It is not just a circus. Of course, we must have fun before life is done. But Happiness is not just about accumulating treasures and trinkets. The ultimate goal of life is to realize the Divine Truth that we will never die. This body will die but that is not 'I'. Every day, day after day, year after year, life escapes us and we fail to open our real eyes to overcome the real lies. Today, we must realize the truth. The past is gone — let it be. But Today, we can take one step toward the truth.

Q: Why do most people fail to live in Today?

A: Each one of us seems to have a monkey in our head, the monkey mind. It is this monkey that makes us slip into Yesterday and Tomorrow. Each day, it is natural for us to slip into Yesterday and Tomorrow. We celebrate the present moment but inadvertently, we regret Yesterday and fear Tomorrow. Why? Why do we let the mind make us grind? Why do we let the mind drill us and kill us with toxic thoughts that are not only stealing our day but stealing our life itself? It is sad that we have not understood the meaning of life.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 3: Why Do We Slip Into Yesterday And Tomorrow?, Page 14-15

Q: Can we add life to our years?

A: The hourglass symbolizes the truth that life is finite. Just like the grains of the hourglass flow, life too will soon go! We must grab hold of life and make the best of it, living each day at its fullest. Every human being has limited hours in a day, limited days in a year and limited years in a life. We can't add years to our life but we can surely add life to our years. This is only possible if we live each day as a new life. Tempus fugit — not only is time flying but life is also flying.

Q: What does a plane crash hypothetical teach us about Today?

A: Imagine hypothetically that last night you were in a plane that crashed and everybody died except you. Would life be the same Today? You would have been transformed because life would have given you a message that your life could have been over. But it isn't. This day is a new life. You would live it differently, completely different. The only challenge is that we are not going to escape a plane crash every day. But that is how we must think when we wake up each morning — this day is a new life, a second chance.

Q: What is the poem about living each day as a new life saying?

A: The poem in the book powerfully summarises the message: 'Live each day as a new life — we can't live in Tomorrow, it's not yet born! We can't live in Yesterday, Yesterday is gone! Make the best of Today, it's a new life! Today is beautiful. Make it a new life! Life is not about the many, many years — life is not misery, sorrow and tears — wipe out everything, Today is a new life! Don't live with regret, with shame, with guilt — the past is not on what life must be built — Today is a fresh day, start a new life!'

THE MONKEY MIND AND ITS TRICKS

Q: What is the monkey mind?

A: Each one of us seems to have a monkey in our head — the monkey mind. It is this monkey that makes us slip into Yesterday and Tomorrow. Just like a monkey jumps from branch to branch, the mind jumps from thought to thought. It swings from the past to the future. The word 'monkey' has a tail EY, which is Ever-Yelling and Ever-Yearning. It creates so much junk in Today! When we cut the tail of the monkey mind, it becomes a monk. Then we are able to live in Today. Each day becomes a new life.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 16: Don't Fill Today With The Fear Of Tomorrow, Page 53

Q: What is MIND an acronym for?

A: The MIND is nothing but Misery, Ignorance, Negativity and Desire. This is why we must still the mind and kill the mind. If only we realize that the MIND — Misery, Ignorance, Negativity and Desire — creates Rottenthoughtitis, a disease most people have but are unaware of. The mind swings to the past which is gone and then to a future which is not born, and stops us from making the best of Today. When we understand the mind for what it truly is, we can begin to take charge of it.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 3: Why Do We Slip Into Yesterday And Tomorrow?, Page 15; Chapter 22: The Secret Of Making The Best Of Life, Page 65

Q: What is Rottenthoughtitis?

A: Rottenthoughtitis is a disease most people have but are unaware of. It is the habit of being caught in rotten, toxic thoughts — thoughts of regret, shame and guilt about the past, and thoughts of fear, worry, stress and anxiety about the future. The mind creates these rotten thoughts and keeps us trapped in a past that is gone and a future not yet born. The secret of making the best of life is to overcome Rottenthoughtitis by living each day as a new life, completely fresh and free from these toxic thoughts.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 22: The Secret Of Making The Best Of Life, Page 65

Q: How does the mind contaminate Today with Yesterday?

A: We are careful not to eat contaminated food or drink contaminated water because it will cause illness. But far more dangerous is the contamination of Today with Yesterday. Yesterday is over, it is gone! But when the mind takes us back to Yesterday, we are sure to become sick. Toxic thoughts of the mind create regret, shame and guilt. Somebody said something — it is still in our head. Somebody did something wrong and we harbour that hurt in our heart. What somebody said and what somebody did is history. It should not spoil Today.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 15: Don't Contaminate Today With Yesterday, Page 49-50

Q: How does the mind fill Today with the fear of Tomorrow?

A: Today is precious — it is pure, clean, new and fresh. But if we let that thief enter our life, we will lose our peace, bliss and joy. That thief is the mind. The moment the mind enters the door, it will push us down on the floor and we will be happy no more! What does the mind do? It brings with it the monsters of fear, worry, stress and anxiety. It leads us into a state of depression and even suicide. It destroys our life by destroying our day. We should not let the mind fill Today with the fear of Tomorrow.

Q: What happens when the mind crosses bridges that don't exist?

A: The mind is capable of bringing Tomorrow, next week, next month and next year into Today! By bringing the challenges of the future into our Consciousness, the mind fools us into crossing bridges that do not exist in our life. Most of us waste our Today in Tomorrow. We let so much of Today escape thinking how we will deal with problems that may arise in the future. These problems may or may not arise. Life is like a flowing river and circumstances are bound to change. We cannot cross these bridges — we have not yet arrived there.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 26: We Will Cross The Bridge When We Come To It, Page 73-74

Q: What is the mind's pendulum effect?

A: The mind can swing like a pendulum — it jumps like a monkey from one branch to another branch. Soon, we wander like a cow into the 'then' and the 'now'. The mind makes us shuttle between Yesterday's regrets and Tomorrow's worries, and in the bargain, Today just disappears into nothingness. We spend the whole day shuttling between Yesterday and Tomorrow. This is our biggest problem in life. The solution is to tame the pendulum — to still the mind and anchor it firmly in the present moment of Today.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 3: Why Do We Slip Into Yesterday And Tomorrow?, Page 15-16

Q: Why does the mind create stress about Tomorrow's things?

A: The mind is an expert in accumulating hundreds of things that await our attention in the future and attacks us as though all these things must be done Today, now! This is the imagination of the mind. We don't have to do everything Today. But when the elephant fills Today, we can do nothing else.

Somehow, our mind tries to create stress and so our life becomes a mess! We all have many things to do but there is no point in worrying about something that we must do tomorrow or next month.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 19: You Can't Eat An Elephant In One Bite!, Page 59-60

Q: What is FEAR according to the book?

A: FEAR is a False Expectation Appearing Real. It is not a real danger. But the mind creates STRESS — the mind brings fears and worries which are not real. When we open the door to Tomorrow, we bring in stress and anxiety that rob our peace and tranquillity. There is no danger in reality. There is no need to fear Today. But we lose Today in the fear of Tomorrow, which doesn't exist. We overthink and worry about something that may never happen. Today, we are sure that there is no problem in life but still we worry about a problem that exists only in the future.

Q: How can we tame the monkey mind into a monk?

A: When we cut the tail of the monkey mind — EY, Ever-Yelling and Ever-Yearning — it becomes a monk. We must still the mind and kill the mind. We must do our best to create day-tight compartments that seal our life into individual days and don't carry miserable memories into each Tomorrow. We will also be saved from fears and worries that are a product of the overthinking mind. To live each day as a new life, we must eliminate the mind — still it and kill it — only then can we live as a peaceful monk, enjoying every moment of each day.

Q: What are toxic thoughts and how do they steal our day?

A: Toxic thoughts include regret, shame and guilt from the past, and fear, worry, stress and anxiety about the future. These thoughts are products of the monkey mind. They steal the peace and tranquillity of Today. We must not permit these toxic thoughts to steal the peace and tranquillity of a new day. When we have Rottenthoughtitis, the same rotten thoughts come back again and again. They nurse, curse and rehearse events of the past. We waste our precious life in rehearsing past moments instead of living the present moment.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 5: Why Suffer The Past?, Page 20-21

Q: Why does the mind make us slaves of the past?

A: Something may have happened 10 years ago but we cannot get it out of our head. We cannot go back to Yesterday. Such is life! The mind may take us there. It may make us nurse, curse and rehearse what is done and dusted but in reality, we cannot go back into the past. It is impossible to go into Yesterday. We remain a fool because we were taught in school about regret, shame and guilt. But nobody taught us how to eliminate the mind where these toxic emotions are built. We waste our precious life in rehearsing past moments instead of reversing them.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 5: Why Suffer The Past?, Page 20-21

Q: How does procrastination relate to the mind?

A: Procrastination is a dangerous disease. When we procrastinate, we delay doing things that we must do and then land up with negative consequences. When we don't realize that each day is a new life, we push away things that must be done Today to a Tomorrow that doesn't exist. Those who live each day as a new life don't know the meaning of procrastination. They believe in the dictate — Do it now!

Whenever they have something to do, they respond with the auto suggestion — Do it now! They know that if they don't finish Today's things Today, Tomorrow will be impossible to manage.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 21: Don't Procrastinate — Do It Now!, Page 63-64

Q: What is the mind's impact on sleep?

A: Lingering negative thoughts of the mind can disturb the start of our day. We must learn to avoid this. We must learn how to go to sleep peacefully and blissfully and wake up refreshed and rejuvenated. We might have some dreams but they should not enter a new day as a reality. Dreams are just dreams and we must leave them in our bed before we put our feet on the street to start a new life, in a new day. If we do not manage the mind before sleep, most likely we will not be able to wake up to a new life.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 23: Sleep Is A Process Of Restoration, Page 67-68

Q: How do we stop the mind from stealing Today?

A: We must make each day a new life — blocking Yesterday and Tomorrow and letting Today be Today. When the mind appears and Today is about to disappear, we must kill the mind before the mind kills our day and our life. On our own, it is impossible for us to go into Yesterday or Tomorrow — nobody in the world can. It is the mind that takes us into the past and the future. We must make a vow to be happy each day and block the mind from stealing our Today. Stillness and Consciousness are the keys.

DAY-TIGHT COMPARTMENTS

Q: What are day-tight compartments?

A: If we want to live a life of peace and Happiness, we must make each day a new life. If we permit Yesterday's regret, shame and guilt to seep into Today, we will have no peace left. So also, if we permit the fears, worries, stress and anxiety of Tomorrow to flood our life, we will undoubtedly sink. The solution is to live in day-tight compartments — to build Today into such a tight compartment that the toxic thoughts of the past cannot enter and it is impossible for the future to enter our Today.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 9: Living In Day-Tight Compartments, Page 32

Q: Where does the concept of day-tight compartments come from?

A: The concept of day-tight compartments can be traced to the watertight compartments in ships. These watertight compartments were vertical walls called bulkheads. These bulkheads prevented water from spreading into the ship or flooding the ship if the hull was damaged. These watertight compartments also ensured the ship's buoyancy and stability. Imagine if there were no watertight compartments in a ship — many more ships would have sunk. Thanks to the watertight compartments, there was safety on the seas. This same principle applies to our life.

Q: How do day-tight compartments protect us?

A: We must do our best to create day-tight compartments that seal our life into individual days and don't carry miserable memories into each Tomorrow. We will also be saved from fears and worries that are a product of the overthinking mind. There is no real danger in Today but when we don't have day-tight compartments, fears and worries will flood our present moment and make us miserable. Just like airtight containers preserve food from going bad, day-tight compartments preserve our Today from being contaminated by Yesterday and Tomorrow.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 9: Living In Day-Tight Compartments, Page 33-34

Q: What is the 24-hour principle?

A: We all know that we have only 24 hours in a day. But do we realize that we only have 24 hours in life? Life is just the 24 hours that come into our hands every morning. When we wake up from our bed, we have no more than 1440 minutes from one sunrise to another. Each day is a new life and if we don't live each day in the 24 hours that we are gifted with, not only do we lose the day but we lose life itself. If we live life as though life is 24 hours only, we will make the best of this journey.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 10: 24 Hours Is All That We Have!, Page 35-36

Q: How do we make a SMART day?

A: The secret of making the best of life is living each day as a new life. Every day, when the sun rises, we must start completely afresh without a trace of Yesterday and Tomorrow. We must make Today SMART — Specific, Measurable, Realistic, Achievable and Time Bound. So, to make a SMART day, we must know specifically what is in Today. We should measure it and not let it be something vague. What we set out to do Today must be realistic and achievable within the 24 hours that are available. Planning the day is planning life.

Q: What is the 4-Quadrant Day?

A: Every day, when we start, we should be clear about the 4 Quadrants of our life Today. Very often, we let Quadrant 4 fill our day — things that are neither important nor urgent but we let them occupy our table. It could be an unnecessary email or message, some piece of news or social media that has no real value but only some entertainment. Reel after reel, hours go and people's screen time goes way beyond their budget. Obviously, whatever is urgent and important gets less time because what is not urgent or important has stolen many hours.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 20: Divide Your Day Into 4 Quadrants, Page 61-62

Q: What does 'eat the frog' mean?

A: Unless we learn to eat the frog, we will continue to procrastinate. What does 'eat the frog' mean? It means to do the hardest, most important task first. When we push away difficult but important tasks, procrastination magnifies the challenge into a humongous task. Those who live each day as a new life don't know the meaning of procrastination. They believe in the dictate — Do it now! Do it now! They know that finishing Today's important things Today is what keeps each day as a clean, new beginning.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 21: Don't Procrastinate — Do It Now!, Page 63-64

Q: What is the 8+8+8 formula for the day?

A: Those who seize the day plan their day with 8+8+8 — 8 hours for work, 8 hours for personal life and leisure, and 8 hours for sleep. If we do not plan our day with 8+8+8, we will unfortunately let the day escape and so will life escape us. Carpe Diem — seize the day — requires us to be intentional about how we use our 24 hours. Without such a plan, the day just drifts by and before we know it, another Today has slipped away into Yesterday, never to return.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 14: Carpe Diem — Seize The Day!, Page 47-48

Q: What is Carpe Diem and why is it still relevant?

A: The phrase Carpe Diem is an ancient Latin phrase that can be traced to around 23 BC. Even 2000 years later, we haven't learned to seize the day. The Roman poet Horace is credited with the phrase, which literally means 'pluck the day.' We must pluck the day, not just to accept it but also to seize and enjoy it. If we don't pluck the fruit when it is ripe, it will be wasted. So, each day unfolds as a ripe fruit. Back then, 2000 years ago, people would also worry about the future and waste life on what was done. Life is no different Today.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 14: Carpe Diem — Seize The Day!, Page 46-47

Q: What is the difference between existing and living?

A: What are you doing Today? You are alive. You are living. But are you living or are you just existing? Are you making the best of your life or are you just consuming it? By now we know that we can't go back to Yesterday. Tomorrow is not yet born. There is no point in living in the past and the future. The truth is absolutely clear — life is about Today. Are you living life? The only way to live life is to live Today and the best way to live Today is to live Today as though it is a new life — completely fresh, completely renewed.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 32: Live Each Day As A New Life, Page 86

Q: What does it mean to live moment by moment?

A: Life can be overwhelming if we let everything that is happening in our life attack us in one moment. It is like eating an elephant in one go. But the famous idiom reminds us to live each day at a time. In fact, we should live life moment by moment. But for this, we must first learn to live life day by day. There may be something happening in our personal life that needs our attention Tomorrow, a doctor's appointment next week, a legal case next month. Should all this rob us of Today? Today, if we want to enjoy a sports event in the evening, we must let Tomorrow's things be Tomorrow's.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 19: You Can't Eat An Elephant In One Bite!, Page 59

Q: Why should we not procrastinate?

A: Procrastination is a dangerous disease. When we procrastinate, we delay doing things that we must do and then land up with negative consequences. When we push away things that must be done Today to a Tomorrow that doesn't exist, Today becomes incomplete and Tomorrow becomes overloaded. Those who live each day as a new life don't know the meaning of procrastination. They believe in the dictate — Do it now! Procrastination gets into our blood, not just our head. Those of us who have this bad habit cannot even see it clearly.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 21: Don't Procrastinate — Do It Now!, Page 63-64

Q: Why is each hour of Today a treasure?

A: When we value each day as being life itself, then each hour becomes a treasure because what is a day other than the 24 hours that come and go? Of the 24 hours, we can't live them all — some hours are needed to rest. But if we treasure each day as a new life, each hour becomes too precious to be wasted in extra sleep or any non-productive work. We will not waste our hours because we will realize that a day gone only means that life has escaped us. Therefore, to make the best of life, we must make the best of each hour.

Q: How can we prevent Yesterday from spilling into Today?

A: We, human beings, understand the importance of newness and freshness. It could be our clothes, footwear, accessories, food or water. We take so much pain to ensure that our glass or bottle is clean but we don't take pains to block Yesterday from contaminating Today. Somebody said something — it is still in our head. Somebody did something wrong and we harbour that hurt in our heart. What somebody said and what somebody did is history. It should not spoil Today. We must make a conscious effort — don't contaminate Today with Yesterday.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 15: Don't Contaminate Today With Yesterday, Page 49-50

Q: What is the connection between day-tight compartments and a ship?

A: Just as watertight bulkheads prevent water from flooding a ship when its hull is damaged, day-tight compartments prevent the toxic emotions of the past and future from flooding our Today. These strong vertical walls that separate different sections of the ship ensure the ship's buoyancy and stability even in a collision. In the same way, day-tight compartments ensure that our life has buoyancy and stability even when Yesterday brought difficulties or Tomorrow threatens challenges. We don't let the water of one section flood the whole ship.

HAPPINESS AND CHOICE

Q: Is happiness a choice?

A: Life is a choice. Many people think that life is predestined — that we are mere puppets who come and go with no control over this show called life. But we have a choice. We can make our life a celebration or let it be filled with misery and strife. We can live in a state of mind that creates misery and sorrow — with fear, worry, stress, anxiety, regret, shame and guilt. Or we can move to a state of Consciousness in which we become the master of our life. We can live with fear or faith. It is our choice.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 11: Life Is A Choice, Page 37-39

Q: What is the basket of life analogy?

A: If Today were a basket given to you in an orchard and you could pick whatever you liked, what fruits would you pick? Would you fill your basket with oranges and peaches and the juiciest fruits or would you fill it with leaves, twigs and branches? Of course, this is a no-brainer! But why do we fail to fill the basket of our life with peace, love and bliss? Every day, we are offered a basket and we have a choice. We can fill our life with joy, bliss, peace, love and Happiness — or we can fill it with the thorns of worry and regret.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 12: Fill Today With Peace, Love And Bliss, Page 40

Q: What is the 3Ps formula for Happiness?

A: AiR discovered that to be truly Happy, we must spell Happy with three Ps — denoting Pleasure, Peace and Purpose. When these three align, one experiences Eternal Happiness. Pleasure is momentary joy. Peace is the inner stillness that is the foundation of lasting happiness. Purpose is the deeper meaning and reason for our existence — discovering who we truly are. When all three align Today, we experience Happiness that is eternal — not dependent on external circumstances but rooted in the Truth of who we are.

Q: What is LOVE according to the book?

A: LOVE is Longing, Of the Soul, Very passionate and an Ecstasy of Joy. When we don't understand the meaning of True Love, our heart breaks and aches and our day becomes unhappy. But if we learn to live with Divine Love, the rainbow of love that has 7 colours — Violet Love for parents, Indigo Love for friends, Blue Love between a boy and a girl, and so on — we experience a joy that is beyond mere pleasure. The basket of our life must not only be filled with peace and bliss but also with the ecstasy of Divine Love each day.

Q: Why should we choose to be Happy Today?

A: Be happy Today! If you want to be happy, remember — Happiness is in the present moment. Happiness is a state of being. We may be doing many things but if we want Happiness, we must be happy, and being belongs to the moment, being belongs to Today. Therefore, it is simple — Happiness belongs to Today. Nobody in the world can be happy Tomorrow. When Tomorrow arrives as Today, it is in that moment that we can be happy. Don't say 'I will be happy tomorrow.' That Tomorrow is an illusion. The only real Happiness is Now.

Q: What is the role of regret in unhappiness?

A: Many of us live with regrets. 'How I wish I had not wasted my life just working. Now, my life has escaped me!' There are many people who live their life with regrets — I would have, I could have, I should have, but now I can't! Of what use is this regret? We can't undo the past. Life has no rewind buttons. We can't go back and change the way we lived. But it is not too late — Today, we can choose to live life the way we want to. Whatever be our circumstances, we still have a choice. But if we don't choose Today, Tomorrow will bring more regret.

Q: How does choice decide destiny?

A: Life is based on the layers of choices that we make. When we live each day as a new life, we are conscious of every brick, every action that we do. Layers of bricks build strong walls of the building and so, our choices decide our destiny. Choosers or losers — it all depends on the choices that we make every moment, for it is these moments of Happiness or unhappiness that decide the destiny of our day and our life. Every Tomorrow is the result of the choice that we make Today. But if we choose not to choose, we lose the opportunity to create a destiny of our choice.

Q: What does it mean to celebrate Today?

A: We all want to celebrate life but unfortunately we can only celebrate Today. We can't go back to Yesterday. If we want to celebrate some moments of past achievements, we must do it in Today. Can we celebrate a dream not yet realized? Any celebration can only happen Today. What if we lose Today? We lose the opportunity of celebrating — not just Today but celebrating life. If we want our life to be a celebration, there must be a simple illumination in our head that every day must be a celebration. Each day may not have big celebrations but every small celebration will add up.

Q: What is the regret of people at the end of life?

A: Many people who are in the twilight of their life tend to regret how they lived. They wish they could have done things differently — they could have done this or that. They wish they could have lived their life enjoying the moments rather than wasting moments. Most people lose their health making wealth and then spend their wealth to regain health. In doing so, life escapes them. If I had my life to live over again, I would have learned to play the guitar, I would have read more, tried every possible cuisine, and loved what I do. Alas — I have just consumed life without truly living it.

Q: How do we fill Today with peace, love and bliss?

A: We cannot fill Today with peace, love and bliss by running after pleasure and lust driven by desire to be the best. In this pursuit of power, name, fame, money, success and achievement, we miss the greater gifts. The basket of our life must be filled with Eternal Peace, Divine Love and Everlasting Bliss. We develop the art of living with peace, love and bliss when we value each day as a new life. We must be locked in Consciousness with an attitude of gratitude, counting our blessings every moment we live.

Q: Can we choose to be Happy even in difficult times?

A: Whatever we do, we can only do in Today. Yesterday is over. It may impact Today but if we live Today as a new life, we can let the past be. So also, the worry of Tomorrow need not impact our Today. If we learn to live each day as a new life, we can put our best efforts in the 24 hours that we have, to make Today so amazing that it will lead us into a better Tomorrow. The truth is that nobody knows what Tomorrow is going to be. But Today, we are free to do what we want to do. Today is in our hands. We must learn to live in Today.

Q: How does counting blessings help us be Happy?

A: To make a day great, we must live with an attitude of gratitude. We must be constantly grateful, as we count our blessings through every moment of each day. There are people who are counting not their blessings but their curses. They don't see all the good that surrounds them — the sunshine, the air they breathe, the people who love them, the food on their table, the health they enjoy. When we shift our attention from what is lacking to what we have, Happiness naturally follows.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 24: Live With Gratitude, Acceptance And Surrender, Page 69

Q: What is the difference between pleasure and Happiness?

A: Happiness is not just about accumulating treasures and trinkets. Pleasure is momentary — it comes from external sources and fades quickly. True Happiness is a state of being that is rooted in peace, love and purpose. Many people chase the First Peak of Happiness — Achievement and Pleasure — only to find it empty. The Second Peak is Fulfilment — living with contentment and peace. The Third and highest Peak is Enlightenment — realizing who we truly are. Only from this deepest realization can we experience Eternal Happiness that is independent of all external circumstances.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 4: How Can We Make The Best Of Life?, Page 19

Q: Why should life be a celebration and not desperation?

A: Life must be a celebration. But there is so much desperation dealing with what has gone and what is not yet born. We can only celebrate the 'now'. If there have been moments of depression, we must bury or burn them, for we can do nothing about them. We create deadlines so that we soon die without enjoying the gift called life. If we make each day a celebration — looking for small achievements, appreciating ourselves and others, finding opportunities to sing, clap and laugh — then life itself becomes a celebration, not a desperate race to an unknown finish line.

Q: How can we make Today amazing?

A: To make Today amazing, we must wake up every day completely refreshed, completely renewed. It is not just a new day — it is a new life! We must snap out of our life history and eliminate all mystery. Today is a reality. It stands before us. We must resolve that we will do our best Today, for Today is ours. We must resolve that we will live each day as it unfolds, day by day, without contaminating it with what is not Today. We must make Today SMART — Specific, Measurable, Realistic, Achievable and Time Bound.

THE GAS FORMULA — GRATITUDE, ACCEPTANCE, SURRENDER

Q: What is the GAS Formula?

A: The GAS Formula is a great way to live each day as a new life. We must fill our day with GAS — Gratitude, Acceptance and Surrender. Unfortunately, we only pay attention to the gas in our car as we drive! We are deeply concerned about not running out of fuel in the middle of the road but we pay scant attention to filling GAS in our life. We must fill Gratitude, Acceptance and Surrender into each new day. If we want to make the best of life, this GAS must be topped up on a daily basis.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 24: Live With Gratitude, Acceptance And Surrender, Page 69

Q: What is Gratitude and why is it important?

A: To make a day great, we must live with an attitude of gratitude. We must be constantly grateful, as we count our blessings through every moment of each day. There are people who count not their blessings but their curses. They see only what is missing, never what they have. When we are grateful, we shift our attention from lack to abundance, from problems to possibilities. Gratitude is the fuel that fills the first chamber of the GAS formula. Without gratitude, even a day full of good things feels empty.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 24: Live With Gratitude, Acceptance And Surrender, Page 69

Q: What is Acceptance and how does it free us?

A: Acceptance is key. Some people don't accept. Instead, they expect and because they are constantly expecting, they live with disappointments. They wonder why this happened and why that happened. They don't understand the Divine Law of Karma. The universe is governed by several universal laws, and one law very specifically states — as you sow, so shall you reap. Therefore, whatever is happening in life is not some magic. It has Divine logic. It is an effect of some cause. Therefore, we have no option but to accept. We must not wonder but accept with gratitude what Karma is giving us.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 24: Live With Gratitude, Acceptance And Surrender, Page 70

Q: What does Surrender mean in the context of living each day?

A: The D of the ABCD Mantra is 'do it as a Divine Instrument' — this is Surrender. When we realize we are not the body and mind but the Divine Soul, a Spark Of Unique Life which is SIP — the Supreme Immortal Power — then when we live as a Divine Instrument, we accept and surrender in this drama called life, knowing that we do nothing. Everything is happening as per a Divine Will. The Divine Will takes charge of our life only when we eliminate the mind that bombards us with toxic thoughts. Then the ego is Enlightened.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 31: The Simple Secret Of Living In Today Is ABCD, Page 84-85

Q: What is the ABCD Mantra?

A: If we want to live Today as if it is a new life — with nothing to do with Yesterday and no connection with Tomorrow — we must adopt the Mantra ABCD. A — Accept everything that happens Today without protest. B — do your Best Today. C — Consciously live in Consciousness, not in the mind. D — do it as a Divine Instrument. These four steps together are the simple secret of living in Today. Karma is like a river from two tributaries — past Karma which we cannot change and present Karma which we can. By doing our Best, we can change our Karma.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 31: The Simple Secret Of Living In Today Is ABCD, Page 83-85

Q: How does Acceptance prevent disappointment?

A: People who don't accept live with constant disappointments because they are forever expecting. They wonder why this happened and why that happened. They don't understand the Divine Law of Karma. Whatever is happening in life is an effect of some cause — it is the result of our past actions. Therefore, we must accept what Karma is giving us. We must not wonder — we must accept with gratitude. When we accept, we are no longer fighting reality. We are at peace with what is. That peace is the foundation of Happiness.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 24: Live With Gratitude, Acceptance And Surrender, Page 70

Q: How does the Law of Karma support the GAS formula?

A: The universe is governed by several universal laws, and one law very specifically states — as you sow, so shall you reap. Therefore, whatever is happening in life has Divine logic. It is an effect of a cause. It is the result of our past actions. When we understand this, Gratitude becomes easier — we are grateful for what Karma has given us. Acceptance becomes easier — we know it is perfect and fair. Surrender becomes easier — we know that doing our Best today is all we can do. GAS and Karma work together to bring peace.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 24: Live With Gratitude, Acceptance And Surrender, Page 70

Q: How do we live as a Divine Instrument?

A: When we live as a Divine Instrument, we accept and surrender in this drama called life, knowing that we do nothing. Everything is happening as per a Divine Will. The Divine Will takes charge of our life only when we eliminate the mind that bombards us with toxic thoughts. Then, the ego is Enlightened. We realize: 'I am nothing. I am but a manifestation of the Divine. Therefore, Today, I live not as me, but as that Divine energy that flows through me.' This gives us the energy to live the ABCD formula in every moment of Today.

Q: What does 'do your Best' mean in the ABCD Mantra?

A: B in the ABCD Mantra is — do your Best. Don't do anything less than the best, for this is the final test. Karma is like a river which is a result of two tributaries merging — the past Karma which we cannot change and the present Karma which we can. By doing our Best, we can change our Karma which would otherwise result in negative consequences. Therefore, not only must we Accept whatever is happening Today but we must also do our Best Today. The fruit of our Best will appear in Tomorrow — a Tomorrow that will arrive as Today.

Q: Why is surrender not weakness?

A: Surrender in the context of GAS is not weakness — it is the highest form of wisdom. When we surrender to the Divine Will, we are not giving up. We are recognizing that after Accepting what has happened and doing our Best in the present, the outcome is in the hands of the Supreme Immortal Power. This is the wisdom of a Yogi — to act fully and surrender the results completely. When we stop clinging to outcomes and surrender in faith, anxiety dissolves and peace floods in. This is the peace that the GAS formula promises.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 24: Live With Gratitude, Acceptance And Surrender, Page 69-70

Q: What is the connection between Gratitude and Consciousness?

A: When we are still, we should be locked in Consciousness with an attitude of gratitude, as we count our blessings every moment we live. Consciousness is the state of being fully aware and present in the moment. Gratitude is the natural expression of one who is truly present — because when we are present, we see all the good that surrounds us. The two reinforce each other: Consciousness deepens gratitude and gratitude deepens Consciousness. Together, they are the key to filling the basket of each day with peace, love and bliss.

Q: How do we practice GAS on a daily basis?

A: The GAS formula must be topped up on a daily basis. Every morning, when we start a new day, we must fill GAS into our day. Begin with Gratitude — count your blessings, appreciate the gift of a new day, a new life. Then move to Acceptance — resolve to accept whatever comes today without protest, knowing it is the fruit of past Karma. Finally, Surrender — commit to doing your Best and then surrendering the outcome to the Divine Will. This daily practice transforms every day into a day of peace, joy and Happiness.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 24: Live With Gratitude, Acceptance And Surrender, Page 69

Q: What is the relationship between Acceptance and peace?

A: When we accept what comes our way — without protest, without fighting, without demanding it be different — we experience peace. This acceptance is not laziness or resignation. It is wisdom. It means understanding that everything happening today is an effect of past causes — Karma. It is perfect. It is just. When we resist, we suffer. When we accept, we are free. Acceptance is the doorway to the peace that passes all understanding. And peace is the very foundation of Happiness. Without Acceptance, peace is impossible.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 24: Live With Gratitude, Acceptance And Surrender, Page 70

Q: How does surrendering to Karma help us live Today better?

A: When we understand that everything happening Today is an effect of past Karma — that it is the fruit of seeds we have planted — we can accept it without bitterness and do our Best without anxiety. We do not need to fight what is happening. We do not need to spend Today worrying about what Yesterday's actions have set in motion. We simply do our Best Today, plant good seeds for Tomorrow and surrender the rest to the Divine Will. This is the liberating truth of the ABCD Mantra and the GAS formula together.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 31: The Simple Secret Of Living In Today Is ABCD, Page 83-84

Q: What happens when we fill Today with GAS?

A: When we fill Today with GAS — Gratitude, Acceptance and Surrender — we discover that Today is no longer a burden but a gift. Gratitude opens our eyes to all the blessings we have. Acceptance frees us from resistance and suffering. Surrender liberates us from anxiety about outcomes. Together, they create a day filled with peace, love and bliss. The GAS formula is not just a philosophy — it is a practical daily practice that, when lived consistently, transforms our life from one of stress and sorrow into one of Eternal Happiness.

THE PAST — HISTORY, SUFFERING AND LETTING GO

Q: Why should we not suffer the past?

A: Suppose we have a fall and break a bone. We will experience pain but more than the pain is the suffering we experience because we remember the fall again and again. We curse, nurse and rehearse things that happened in the past — things that we cannot change. It is not just physical pain. Very often, we live with regret, shame and guilt. Something may have happened 10 years ago but we cannot get it out of our head. We waste our precious life in rehearsing past moments instead of reversing them. If only we spent the 'now' doing something about what we regret.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 5: Why Suffer The Past?, Page 20-21

Q: What is the use of living in regret?

A: Of what use is this regret? We can't undo the past. Life has no rewind buttons. We can't go back and change the way we lived. We waste our precious life in rehearsing past moments. Something may have happened Yesterday and we feel so ashamed that the shame spoils the game of Today. Today, we could have been happy but we are unhappy because we are trading the present moment — which is in our hands — with a Yesterday that is no more in our hands. Why do we do this? It is because of the mind that makes us blind.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 5: Why Suffer The Past?, Page 21

Q: What is the past — history — and how should we treat it?

A: The past is history. Events that are over are in the past — we cannot change them. Still, we study past events. We analyse. We interpret. No doubt, the world will learn from history and we too can pick up some learnings from our past. But living in the past is meaningless. Instead of pondering history, we must enjoy the pastry that is in front of us. The pastry is the present moment — the bliss, the joy and the peace that is offered to us in Today. When we forget Today and live in the past, we miss the pastry right in front of us.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 27: Enjoy The Pastry! Forget The History And The Mystery, Page 75

Q: How should good and bad memories be handled?

A: Each day is a new life. We can make Today so amazing that there is no regret when it becomes Yesterday. Or we can live Today wasting our precious moments with shame, regret and guilt — but when the day is over, we would have only built more toxic memories. Just like we flush our toilets once done, we must learn to wipe out the past that is not productive. Our good memories will then automatically be saved in our hearts. The key is to keep what is useful from the past and flush away what is not.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 5: Why Suffer The Past?, Page 21-22

Q: What is the danger of nursing, cursing and rehearsing the past?

A: The mind goes to the past and makes us nurse, curse and rehearse what is done and dusted. We nurse the wounds of what happened. We curse those who caused us pain. We rehearse the events over and over in our mind. But all this is useless because the past cannot be changed. We can take some medicine to reduce pain. But instead, we suffer by living in the past that cannot be changed. This nursing, cursing and rehearsing is a colossal waste of our precious Today. It is the mind at its most destructive.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 5: Why Suffer The Past?, Page 20

Q: What does 'enjoy the pastry' mean?

A: Instead of pondering history, we must enjoy the pastry that is in front of us. The pastry is the present moment — the bliss, the joy and the peace that is offered to us in Today. Today is a delicious pastry. We must enjoy each bite of it. Every minute of Today is a precious morsel not to be wasted. The pastry of Today is fresh, sweet and full of possibility. But when we are lost in the history of Yesterday or the mystery of Tomorrow, we miss this delicious pastry completely. It grows stale and is wasted.

Q: What does 'forget the history and the mystery' mean?

A: The past is history and the future is a mystery. History is what is done and dusted — we cannot change it, and living in it is meaningless. Mystery is the unknown future — nobody can guarantee it, and worrying about it is pointless. When we forget the history and the mystery, we are left with only Today — the present reality, the pastry that is in front of us right now. We must snap out of our life history and eliminate all mystery. Today is a reality. It stands before us. We must resolve to do our Best Today.

Q: Can we reverse our past mistakes?

A: We can't reverse what happened in Yesterday. Nobody in our present can go there. But we can reverse the direction of our life Today. We can change what will happen Tomorrow by what we do Today. If only we spent the 'now' doing something about what we regret — that is the way to genuinely deal with the past. We cannot reverse past actions, but we can make Today so good that it creates a better Tomorrow. Instead of rehearsing what went wrong, we must focus all energy on making Today right.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 5: Why Suffer The Past?, Page 21-22

Q: Why does shame spoil Today?

A: Something may have happened Yesterday and we feel so ashamed that the shame spoils the game of Today. Today, we could have been happy but we are unhappy because we are trading the present moment — which is in our hands — with a Yesterday that is no more in our hands. Shame, regret and guilt are toxic emotions that the mind uses to keep us trapped in the past. They have no constructive value when they prevent us from living Today fully. We must not let the shame of Yesterday contaminate the fresh canvas of Today.

Q: What is the lesson from those who lived with regret at the end of their life?

A: Many people who are in the twilight of their life tend to regret how they lived. They wish they could have done things differently — they could have, would have, should have. They wish they could have lived their life enjoying moments rather than wasting them. Most people lose their health making wealth and then spend their wealth to regain health. The lesson is clear: don't wait until the twilight of life to realize that Today was the only time to truly live. The time to make the most of life is Today — not Tomorrow, not after retirement, but Now.

Q: What is the relationship between the past and Karma?

A: The universe is governed by several universal laws, and one very specifically states — as you sow, so shall you reap. Therefore, whatever happened in our past — good or bad — was the fruit of seeds we planted even earlier. Our present life is a result of our past Karma. And our future life will be the result of what we do Today. Understanding this, we no longer need to be bitter about the past. We accept it as the perfect and just fruit of our past actions. We focus energy on planting good seeds Today for a better Tomorrow.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 24: Live With Gratitude, Acceptance And Surrender, Page 70

Q: What is the hourglass teaching us about the past?

A: The hourglass symbolizes the truth that life is finite. Just like the grains of the hourglass flow from one chamber to another, life flows and the past is gone forever. The best way to remember this is to keep a little hourglass on our table. The grains of sand in the hourglass remind us that every moment that is gone is gone forever — tempus fugit, time flies! We must grab hold of life and make the best of it. Once the sand is in the lower chamber, it cannot go back up. Once the moment is gone, it is gone. Only Today remains.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 28: Be Inspired By The Hourglass, Page 77

Q: How does the mind keep us imprisoned in the past?

A: The mind swings to the past which is gone and then to a future which is not born, and stops us from making the best of Today. This is Rottenthoughtitis — a disease most people have but are unaware of. The mind makes us nurse, curse and rehearse the past. It also makes us fear and worry about the future. The solution is to recognize the mind for what it is — MIND: Misery, Ignorance, Negativity and Desire — and to still it and kill it so that we can be free to live in the beautiful present moment of Today.

Q: What should we do when the past tries to enter Today?

A: When Yesterday's miserable memories try to enter Today, we must make a conscious effort to stop them. Don't contaminate Today with Yesterday. If we want to do something Today which relates to the past, we can be in Consciousness and do it — realizing that we are doing it in Today and choosing what to carry forward. But we must not let the toxic emotions of the past — regret, shame, guilt, hurt — enter Today uninvited. We are careful about contaminated food; let us be even more careful about contaminated thoughts.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 15: Don't Contaminate Today With Yesterday, Page 49-50

Q: How can we make peace with our past?

A: We can make peace with our past by accepting it as the fruit of past Karma, by extracting the learnings it offers and by letting go of the rest. Just like we flush the toilet once done, we must learn to wipe out the past that is not productive. We keep only what builds us — the wisdom, the growth, the good memories — and flush away the regret, shame and guilt. Then, our good memories are naturally preserved in our heart, while the toxic ones are gone. This is how each day becomes a truly fresh and new life.

TOMORROW — FEAR, WORRY AND LETTING GO

Q: Why is Tomorrow an illusion?

A: Whatever we imagine could happen Tomorrow may or may not happen — there is no guarantee! We may imagine going to some place, being with somebody or travelling somewhere. As the date changes, a new life unfolds. How often do we spend our day thinking, planning, scheming and dreaming of Tomorrow, next week, next month and next year? We go beyond to decades ahead when there is no guarantee of Tomorrow. Today is a Tomorrow that we thought of Yesterday. How many things changed? Nobody knows about Tomorrow. No Tomorrow is guaranteed but Today is.

Q: Why is worrying about Tomorrow foolish?

A: There is no stress Today but we make a mess of it by bringing in Tomorrow's fears. Today, we are sure that there is no problem in life but still we worry about a problem that exists only in the future. Why live in Tomorrow and spoil Today? Isn't it utter foolishness? There is no stress Today but we stress ourselves worrying about something that may never happen. Tomorrow has fears and worries which are not real. When we open the door to Tomorrow, we bring in stress and anxiety that rob our peace and tranquillity.

Q: What does FEAR stand for?

A: FEAR is a False Expectation Appearing Real. It is not a real danger. But the mind creates STRESS in our life through fear. Tomorrow's fears and worries are not real — they are False Expectations Appearing Real. The mind makes them seem like real dangers when in fact there is no danger in Today. There is no need to fear Today. But we lose Today in the fear of Tomorrow, which doesn't exist. We overthink and worry about something that may never happen. When we realize that FEAR is False, it loses its power over us.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 16: Don't Fill Today With The Fear Of Tomorrow, Page 51

Q: Why should we cross the bridge only when we come to it?

A: Most of us are trying to cross the bridge of life that has not yet arrived. We may be thinking of a big project, a meeting that will happen after 45 days. We have already done our bit and it is only after 45 days that we will know the next step. But we waste 45 precious days worrying, anxious, fearful and stressed about something we can do nothing about. Let us cross the bridge when we come to it! Life is like a flowing river and circumstances are bound to change. The bridge we fear may not even exist when we arrive at it.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 26: We Will Cross The Bridge When We Come To It, Page 73

Q: How does the mind bring Tomorrow's challenges into Today?

A: The mind is capable of bringing Tomorrow, next week, next month and next year into Today! By bringing the challenges of the future into our Consciousness, the mind fools us into crossing bridges that do not exist. This is meaningless, a complete waste of time. We don't have to do everything Today. But when the mind piles up all the elephants of the future into Today, we are paralyzed and can do nothing. The mind tries to create stress and so our life becomes a mess.

Q: What is YOLO and how should we understand it?

A: The modern world, probably inspired by Horace, has a new similar terminology — YOLO, You Only Live Once. While YOLO expresses similar sentiments as Carpe Diem, the modern generation has made it a justification for reckless living. Instead of seizing the day, YOLO often makes people behave irresponsibly without planning for the future. However, one must appreciate the concept of YOLO — knowing that life is just one great opportunity and not to waste it in Yesterday or Tomorrow. Seizing the day is not recklessness; it is wisdom.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 14: Carpe Diem — Seize The Day!, Page 48

Q: Why does living in Tomorrow destroy Today?

A: When we live in the mind state, we live in Tomorrow. But if we live in Consciousness, we will live in Today, in the present moment. The truth is that there is no Tomorrow! We know it. But still, the mind drags us into Tomorrow. In the bargain, we lose Today. We fill Today with so much poison that life itself seems futile. Don't fill Today with Tomorrow because in Tomorrow there will always be fear, worry, stress and anxiety. When we say Tomorrow, we don't just mean Tomorrow but the many Tomorrows that become the future that the mind wants to attack us with.

Q: How does imagination become a curse when used for the future?

A: We have a great gift — the gift of imagination — which, unfortunately, we misuse, filling ourselves with fear and stress. Imagination is a creative faculty of our super-Consciousness that we must use for the present moment. Our creativity and imagination are not to forecast a disaster and let the mind be paralyzed by fear. Instead, we must use our imagination creatively — to paint the canvas of Today with vibrant colours of peace, love and bliss. When we misuse imagination to frighten ourselves about Tomorrow, we destroy Today.

Q: What is the wisdom of 'you can't eat an elephant in one bite'?

A: Life can be overwhelming if we let everything that is happening in our life attack us in one moment. It is like eating an elephant in one go. But the wisdom is: live each day at a time, moment by moment. Let us eat the bite of the elephant that we need to eat Today. Tomorrow's bite will be taken care of Tomorrow and before we realize it, the elephant would be no more! We don't have to do everything Today. When we focus only on Today's bite, Today becomes manageable and even enjoyable.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 19: You Can't Eat An Elephant In One Bite!, Page 59-60

Q: What is the stress that comes from overthinking about Tomorrow?

A: Somehow, our mind tries to create stress and so our life becomes a mess! We all have many things to do but there is no point in worrying about something that we must do next month. We overthink and worry about something that may never happen. Today, we are sure that there is no problem in life but still we worry about a problem that exists only in the future. This self-created stress robs us of Today's peace and tranquillity. And worse, the problem we were worrying about may never even materialize.

Q: What happens to those who are always planning for the future?

A: There is too much to do and too little time! So many problems and challenges! So many desires and dreams! When we spend all of Today planning for Tomorrow, we lose Today. We never arrive in the present moment. We are always 'almost there' — always one step away from the happiness we are planning. Before we know it, years have passed in planning and we have never truly lived. The future we were planning for has arrived and passed, and we were too busy planning the next future to notice.

Q: Can Tomorrow ever be guaranteed?

A: Yesterday, we thought that Tomorrow we will go hiking but we did not know that it would pour cats and dogs Today. Nobody knows about Tomorrow. There may be weather predictions but can we guarantee it? No Tomorrow is guaranteed but Today is. Today is in our hands. We can live Today the way we want to. Today is the only guarantee we have. Therefore, all energy poured into securing, planning and worrying about Tomorrow is at least partly wasted. The only guaranteed investment we can make is in Today.

Q: How does Today become the best investment for Tomorrow?

A: A Today well-lived is surely going to make a great Tomorrow, because when Tomorrow arrives as Today, we will be making the best of every moment. Every Tomorrow is the result of the choice that we make Today. Therefore, the best investment for Tomorrow is to make Today amazing. When we do our Best Today — with Gratitude, Acceptance and Surrender — we plant the best seeds for Tomorrow. And when Tomorrow arrives as Today, those seeds will bear fruit. We secure Tomorrow by fully living Today.

Q: What does 'tempus fugit' remind us about Tomorrow?

A: Tempus fugit means 'Time flies'. We must remind ourselves that every moment that is gone is gone forever — tempus fugit! Not only is time flying but life is also flying. When we keep living in Tomorrow, time flies and we realize that we never truly lived. The grains of the hourglass flow downward — they cannot go back up. Every moment we waste in worry about Tomorrow is a grain of sand that has fallen and is gone forever. The hourglass on the table is a powerful reminder: use Today now, for it will soon become Yesterday.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 28: Be Inspired By The Hourglass, Page 77

Q: Why is the mystery of Tomorrow not worth worrying about?

A: While the past is history, the future is a mystery. What does this mean? It indicates that the future is uncertain. Nobody in the world can guarantee the future. We may forecast the weather based on climatic conditions but worrying about the future is meaningless. We can't live in Tomorrow. We can only live in Today. But when the mystery created by the mind of a Tomorrow that does not exist fills our day, we don't enjoy the pastry that Today offers. Today is a delicious pastry. We must enjoy each bite of it. Every minute of Today is precious.

SLEEP, CONSCIOUSNESS AND STILLNESS

Q: What is sleep and why is it important?

A: Sleep is a process of restoration, rejuvenation, to re-energize our body and our life. It is during sleep that the body repairs its cells, which is very necessary for biological functions to continue to function smoothly. Throughout the day, we are active and our energy is depleted. That is why, if we do not sleep for at least 6 hours a day, we can't maintain a healthy life. To live each day as a new life, we must sleep well. We must switch off everything in the body so that the process of body restoration lets us wake up to a new day, a new life.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 23: Sleep Is A Process Of Restoration, Page 67

Q: How does sleep connect to living each day as a new life?

A: To live each day as a new life, we must sleep well. We must switch off everything in the body so that the process of body restoration lets us wake up to a new day, a new life. Biologically, sleep has its own necessity. But if we do not sleep, most likely we will not be able to wake up to a new life. Lingering negative thoughts of the mind can disturb the start of our day. We must learn to go to sleep peacefully and blissfully and wake up refreshed and rejuvenated. Dreams should not enter a new day as a reality.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 23: Sleep Is A Process Of Restoration, Page 67-68

Q: What is Consciousness and how does it help us live in Today?

A: Consciousness is the state of being fully present and aware in the moment. It is the opposite of living in the mind state. When we live in the mind state, we live in Yesterday or Tomorrow — in thought, in worry, in regret. But if we live in Consciousness, we live in Today, in the present moment. Consciousness is where we can activate the intellect and discriminate between what truly matters and what does not. In Consciousness, we can make the choice to live Today as a new life, fresh and free.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 11: Life Is A Choice, Page 38

Q: What is the Divine voice and how do we hear it?

A: Each day of life, we are so lost in the world's noise that we do not hear the Divine voice. Every day, we have an opportunity to realize the truth but we don't. The truth reveals to us who we actually are and why we are here. But because we are not still, because we are not in the moment, we do not renew our thoughts and our Realizations. The ultimate goal of life is to realize the Divine Truth that we will never die. This body will die but that is not 'I'. To hear the Divine voice, we must be still — today, in this moment.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 30: Today, Be Still To Hear The Divine Voice, Page 81

Q: What is stillness and why is it important?

A: Stillness is the elimination of all mental noise — the silencing of the monkey mind. It is in stillness that we can hear the Divine voice. It is in stillness that the 'Aha' moment of Awakening can happen. Such Awakening can only happen in Today. We haven't done it in the past and we cannot let it be for the future. If it must be, it must be Today and for it to be Today, there is only one way — stillness to eliminate all mental illness and to wipe out fear, worry, stress and anxiety. The mind bombards us with toxic thoughts; stillness is the remedy.

Q: What waking up ritual helps us start each day as a new life?

A: Every morning, we wake up from sleep. But what do we wake up with? Do we wake up grateful that we have a new day to live? Are we excited about the 24 hours that each day brings as an opening balance to us? We have 1440 minutes credited to our 'every day life account' at the stroke of midnight. We must wake up every day completely refreshed, completely renewed — and not wake up with Yesterday's regrets or Tomorrow's worries. The ideal morning begins with gratitude for the gift of a new day, a new life.

Q: Why should we choose to be Happy rather than hoping to be Happy?

A: Don't wake up each day saying 'I want to be Happy.' Get out of bed saying 'I choose to be Happy!' There is a world of difference between wanting and choosing. Wanting is passive — it waits for circumstances to deliver Happiness. Choosing is active — it decides in advance that Today will be a day of Happiness regardless of what comes. Happiness is a state of being, not a result of circumstances. When we choose it each morning, we set the tone for the entire day.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Poem, Page 94

Q: What does the 'Aha' moment of Awakening mean?

A: It is in Today, in Consciousness, that there can be this Realization — the 'Aha' moment of Awakening. Such Awakening can only happen in Today. We haven't done it in the past and we cannot let it be for the future. If it must be, it must be Today and for it to be Today, there is only one way — stillness. In this moment of stillness, we realize at least a little bit of who we are. We are the Divine Soul, the Spark Of Unique Life. This Awakening is the highest use of any Today.

Q: How much sleep is ideal?

A: Some people may sleep for 5-6 hours while others may sleep for 8-10 hours — it is an individual choice. But how much time do we need to sleep? If we treasure each day as a new life, each hour becomes too precious to be wasted in extra sleep or any non-productive work. We must get at least 6 hours of sleep to maintain a healthy life and the body's restorative processes. But beyond what the body needs, extra sleep is lost life. The key is to find the right balance — enough sleep to wake up refreshed and renewed for a new life.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 10: 24 Hours Is All That We Have!, Page 36; Chapter 23: Sleep Is A Process Of Restoration, Page 67

Q: How does Consciousness differ from thinking?

A: Thinking is the state of the mind — full of 50,000 thoughts a day, jumping between Yesterday and Tomorrow, filled with fear, worry, stress and anxiety. Consciousness is the state of thoughtlessness — being fully present in the moment, aware, still and clear. In thinking, the mind is king and we are its slaves. In Consciousness, we become the master — the boss — and the intellect can discriminate clearly between right and wrong, important and unimportant. Consciousness is the gateway to living each day as a truly new life.

Q: What does it mean to wake up to a new life each morning?

A: Every morning, we are born fresh. Every day, we are rejuvenated. Every day is a birthday. To wake up to a new life means to rise each morning with the conscious decision that Today has nothing to do with Yesterday. Today is a clean, fresh canvas. We can paint it with any colours we choose. We leave behind the miseries of Yesterday in bed. We do not pick up Tomorrow's worries before we put our feet on the floor. We step into Today as a brand new human being, grateful, alive and ready to make the best of every one of the 1440 minutes ahead.

Q: How does going to sleep peacefully support a new life the next day?

A: We must learn how to go to sleep peacefully and blissfully and wake up refreshed and rejuvenated. We might have some dreams but they should not enter a new day as a reality. Dreams are just dreams and we must leave them in our bed before we put our feet on the street to start a new life in a new day. If we go to sleep with fear and worry, those same toxins will greet us when we wake up. But if we go to sleep with gratitude, peace and surrender, we awaken to the clean fresh canvas of a truly new life.

Q: What is the Spark Of Unique Life?

A: SOUL — Spark Of Unique Life. We are Souls. We were conceived 9 months before our so-called birthday, when there was no body — just one cell called the zygote. We are Sparks Of Unique Lives. One day, the body will die. But we are immortal. Isn't that reason enough to celebrate every day? When we realize we are the Soul, we understand that life is far bigger than the few decades of the body's existence. We are eternal. And knowing this, every Today becomes a priceless opportunity to experience the Divine within.

Q: How does the river analogy describe life's flow?

A: A river flows till it ultimately empties into an ocean or a lake. But each day — like each day — begins and ends. Then, there is a new day, a new life. Just like beads in a rosary, our days are beaded too into a beautiful necklace called life. And the river doesn't stop flowing — neither does life. Can we pause life like we pause a YouTube video? We can't. It is like a live event. Just because we go to the washroom, the event won't stop. It will go on. If we don't jump into life and make the best of each day, life will flow by without us.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 18: Life Is Like A River That Is Flowing, Page 57-58

Q: What is the 'opening balance' of each new day?

A: We have 1440 minutes credited to our 'every day life account' at the stroke of midnight, when the date changes. By the time we wake up at sunrise, 25% of the day seems to have gone! Just to set that part right, suppose we imagine that our day starts at sunrise — we still have the same 24 hours, from one sunrise to another. The question remains: what do we wake up with at every sunrise? Do we wake up grateful for this opening balance of minutes? Or do we wake up with the overdraft of Yesterday's worries and Tomorrow's fears?

LIFE IS A DRAMA — KARMA AND PURPOSE

Q: What is the drama of life?

A: Life is a drama which is unfolding as per Karma. If there is some trauma, it is not luck, serendipity or chance. Every deed that we do becomes a seed that must bear fruit. Therefore, everything that happens in life is not some random unfolding of natural phenomena. This world is governed by an intelligent Power that has created such an amazing universe. What we don't realize is that we have a choice. We can make our life a celebration or let it be filled with misery and strife. We are actors in this drama and we have the freedom to choose how we play our role.

Q: What is the Law of Karma?

A: The universe is governed by several universal laws, and one very specifically states — as you sow, so shall you reap. Therefore, whatever is happening in life is not some magic. It has Divine logic. It is an effect of some cause. It is the result of our past actions. Karma is like a river which is a result of two tributaries merging — the past Karma which we cannot change, and the present Karma which we can. By doing our Best Today, we can change our Karma which would otherwise result in negative consequences.

Q: Why is life not predestined?

A: Many people think that life is predestined — that we are mere puppets who come and go with no control over this show called life. Few understand that life is a drama which is unfolding as per Karma. But we have a choice. We can make our life a celebration or let it be filled with misery and strife. Choices decide destiny. Every moment, we have free will to choose our thoughts, our actions and our attitudes. When we live each day as a new life, we are conscious of every brick, every action that we do.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 11: Life Is A Choice, Page 37-38

Q: What is the ultimate goal of life?

A: What is the ultimate goal of life? The ultimate goal of life is to realize the Divine Truth that we will never die. This body will die but that is not 'I'. Every day, day after day, year after year, life escapes us and we fail to open our real eyes to overcome the real lies. Today, we must realize the truth. In it, in Today, in Consciousness, there can be the Realization — the 'Aha' moment of Awakening — that we are the Divine Soul, the Spark Of Unique Life. This Awakening is the highest use of any Today.

Q: Why is life not just a circus?

A: What is life all about? Life has a purpose. It is not just a circus. Of course, we must have fun before life is done. But Happiness is not just about accumulating treasures and trinkets. There is a deeper purpose — to realize who we truly are, why we came to earth and what happens after we die. The highest purpose of human life is Self-Realization and God-Realization. When we pursue only pleasure and achievement without this deeper purpose, our life becomes a circus — entertaining but meaningless.

Q: What does it mean to be the Soul and not the body?

A: We are Souls — Sparks Of Unique Lives. We were conceived 9 months before our so-called birthday, when there was no body — just one cell called the zygote. One day, the body will die. But we are immortal. Isn't that reason enough to celebrate? The ultimate goal of life is to realize the Divine Truth that we will never die. This body will die but that is not 'I'. We are not the body and we are not the mind. We are the Divine Soul — that Spark Of Unique Life — which is a manifestation of SIP, the Supreme Immortal Power.

Q: How does Karma determine what happens each day?

A: Everything that happens in life is not some random unfolding of natural phenomena. Every deed that we do becomes a seed that must bear fruit. Every action we have done in the past — in this life or past lives — has created Karma that is now bearing fruit in our present life. Therefore, whatever is unfolding in our life Today is an effect of a cause. This is why acceptance is so important — what is happening Today is perfect Karmic justice. And what we do Today is planting seeds for our future.

Q: What is the author's own journey from success to Enlightenment?

A: For several decades, the author lived a life of stress. His life appeared all fun and excitement with entertainment — going from peak to peak, success to success. For 25 years, he considered himself to be the best. But he did not truly live those decades — he just consumed them. All he did was zoom from womb and he knew that soon he would reach his tomb. He stopped. He changed. He transformed his life. He transcended the Lower Self and evolved to his Higher Self. Then, he received the greatest gift — Eternal Peace, Divine Love and Everlasting Bliss.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Afterword, Page 88

Q: What is the Higher Self versus the Lower Self?

A: The Lower Self is the ego-driven identity that lives for pleasure, achievement, power and fame. It is the identity that worries about Yesterday and Tomorrow, that clings to success and fears failure. The Higher Self is the Divine Soul — the Spark Of Unique Life — that is connected to the Supreme Immortal Power. When we transcend the Lower Self and evolve to the Higher Self, we receive the greatest gift — Eternal Peace, Divine Love and Everlasting Bliss. This transcendence is the highest purpose of every Today.

Q: What is the difference between living and consuming life?

A: In hindsight, the author says he did not live those past decades — he just consumed them. There is a profound difference between living and consuming. Consuming means using up the days — eating, sleeping, working, achieving — without awareness, without presence, without depth. Living means being fully present in every moment, making conscious choices, growing, loving, giving, seeking. We consume life when we are caught in Yesterday and Tomorrow. We live life when we are fully in Today, making each moment count.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Afterword, Page 88

Q: How does understanding Karma help us accept Today?

A: When we understand that whatever is happening Today is an effect of past Karma — that it is the fruit of seeds we have planted — we can accept it without bitterness. We don't need to wonder why this happened. We simply accept it as the perfect and just fruit of our past actions. This acceptance brings peace. And peace is the foundation of Happiness. Moreover, knowing that Today's actions are planting seeds for Tomorrow gives us purpose and motivation to do our Best Today. Karma is both the explanation for the past and the opportunity of the present.

Q: What is SIP — the Supreme Immortal Power?

A: SIP stands for the Supreme Immortal Power. We are not the body and we are not the mind — we are the Divine Soul, that Spark Of Unique Life which is none other than SIP, the Supreme Immortal Power. When we live as a Divine Instrument, we accept and surrender in this drama called life, knowing that we do nothing. Everything is happening as per a Divine Will — the will of SIP. The Divine Will takes charge of our life only when we eliminate the mind that bombards us with toxic thoughts.

Q: What is the purpose of human existence?

A: Life is a journey from our first breath till the ultimate moment of death. Nobody taught us how to live life. We learned languages, sciences, art and so much more. But the most important of all — life — nobody paid attention to it. The purpose of human existence is not just to learn and earn and then die. The purpose is to realize who we truly are — that we are the Divine Soul, the immortal Spark Of Unique Life. This realization, when it happens in Today, liberates us from the cycle of suffering and grants us Eternal Happiness.

Q: Why is life a beautiful gift?

A: Life is a beautiful gift. But unfortunately, we take it for granted. We don't value the gift of each day and so, life just flows by. The secret of living life is to live life day by day. It is such a simple secret that it doesn't seem to be a secret at all. Unfortunately, very few people in this world actually live in the day, when the truth is that there is no other way to live life. This world is such a beautiful world. But we are caught in rotten thoughts. When we wake up to the beauty of each new day, we discover what a treasure life truly is.

Q: What does 'zoom from womb to tomb' mean?

A: The author reflects that all he did was zoom from womb and he knew that soon he would reach his tomb. This phrase captures the tragedy of an unconsidered life — born, then racing through decades of busyness, and dying without ever having truly stopped to live. It is the life of one who consumed the days rather than living them. The antidote is to stop the zoom, to pause, to reflect, to choose — to make each day a new life. Otherwise, we zoom from womb to tomb having never truly arrived in the present moment.

THE ART OF MAKING EACH DAY A NEW LIFE

Q: What is the single most important secret of making the best of life?

A: The secret of making the best of life is to live each day as a new life. Every day, when the sun rises, we must start completely afresh without a trace of Yesterday and Tomorrow. Knowing the secret is not living the secret. The secret of making the best of life is living each day as a new life — each morning, a fresh canvas, a new start, a new life. This is such a simple secret that it doesn't seem to be a secret at all. Yet, very few people in this world actually live in the day, when the truth is that there is no other way to live life.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 22: The Secret Of Making The Best Of Life, Page 65-66

Q: How does the author live each day as a new life?

A: Today, 'Live Each Day As A New Life' is a testimony to the author's own life. It is not just a philosophy — it is not just a thought process. It is a true submission of how he lives his life. He says: 'Now I have no stress. I live as the happiest man in the world as I live each day as a new day. I live each day as a new life.' He found a way to eliminate all the mess of fear, worry and sorrow. When a day starts, he does not carry Yesterday's weight into it. Each day is a genuinely new life.

Q: What is the poem's vision of living each day as a new life?

A: The poem powerfully captures the vision: 'Each day is a new life. Each day is not just a day, it is a new life, a new beginning. Be conscious of the minutes that pass, be alert to what is happening! The days that are gone are over, but life Today is brand new. You can achieve anything, be anything. Believe! It is true! Life is not about days, weeks, months that fill up a year. Life is about filling Today with peace, joy, love and cheer. Each day is a new life, to its fullest you must live. Be Happy, make others Happy, give!'

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Poem, Page 6-7

Q: What is the canvas of each day?

A: Each day is a new canvas to paint, a new picture, a new start — with vibrant colours of Happiness, make each day a work of art! If we start painting the canvas of each day without any stains or images of the past and future, then we can take a palette of colours and splash it on the canvas. The canvas of each day is completely fresh and white at the start. What picture we paint on it today is entirely up to us. We can paint it with the dark colours of fear and regret, or with the vibrant colours of peace, love, joy and bliss.

Q: How do we make life 'wow'?

A: Life is about this moment. It is about now. Don't wander like a cow — make your life 'wow'! Make Today amazing and you will have a great life! When we live fully in Today, when we are conscious and present in every moment, when we fill the day with peace, love, bliss, laughter and giving, life becomes 'wow'. It is not about big achievements or grand moments. It is about the quality of each moment — each conversation, each breath, each smile. A string of 'wow' moments makes a 'wow' life.

Q: What is the river of life teaching us about each day?

A: Life is like a river that is flowing. The river will not call us. It will not wait. It will flow. So also, each day will flow with its 24 hours. 1440 minutes will not wait for anybody in the world. One may be the president of the mightiest nation but even they will get the same 1440 minutes — no more, no less. If we jump into life with fun and excitement — swimming, boating, rafting — we will live it. But if we sit by the riverbank, the river of life flows by. We must jump in and make the best of each day.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 18: Life Is Like A River That Is Flowing, Page 57-58

Q: How do we seize each day like a ripe fruit?

A: Carpe Diem literally means 'pluck the day.' We must pluck the day, not just to accept it but to seize and enjoy it. If we don't pluck the fruit when it is ripe, it will be wasted. So, each day unfolds as a ripe fruit. We must seize it. We must enjoy each bite of it. We can do this with the ABCD Mantra — Accept, do our Best, live Consciously and do it as a Divine Instrument. With this approach, not a single day will be wasted. Every day will be plucked at its ripest, enjoyed to its fullest.

Q: What does it mean to 'add life to our years'?

A: Some people are trying to add years to their life. Others think it is better to add life to their years. Years don't matter — Today is the only life! We can't add years to our life but we can surely add life to our years. This is only possible if we live each day as a new life. Adding life to our years means making each day vivid, conscious, joyful and meaningful. It means not just existing through the years but truly living each one of the 1440 minutes each day brings.

Source: Live Each Day As A New Life, Chapter 28: Be Inspired By The Hourglass, Page 77-78; Poem, Page 90

Q: What is the final message of the book?

A: Each day is a new life. Each day is an opportunity to live, to love and to laugh. But unfortunately, the regret, shame and guilt of Yesterday, and the fear, worry and stress of Tomorrow rob our peace and tranquillity, and we live with anxiety! We must clear this mess, eliminate all stress, by living each day as a new life. By living in day-tight compartments, we can make the most of each moment, each day, and thus live an amazing life. Once we start to live each day as a new life, we will make our life amazing — day by day.

Q: What does it mean that every day is a birthday?

A: The truth is that every day is a birthday. Every day, we are born fresh. Every day, we are rejuvenated. Just as we celebrate a birthday with excitement, enthusiasm and positivity, we can celebrate every single day as a birthday — a fresh new beginning. And if we contemplate deeply, we realize that we were conceived 9 months before our so-called birthday, when there was no body — just one cell. We are Souls, immortal Sparks Of Unique Life. Every day we wake up is another gift of life. Isn't every day worth celebrating as a birthday?

Q: What is the advice for someone who feels they have wasted their life?

A: We can't undo the past. Life has no rewind buttons. We can't go back and change the way we lived. But it is not too late. Today, we can choose to live life the way we want to. Whatever be our circumstances, we still have a choice. Today is in our hands. We must resolve that we will do our Best Today. We must snap out of our life history and eliminate all mystery. Today is a reality. It stands before us. We must start that Today. If we live Today as a new life and enjoy Today, we will look back and celebrate the beautiful days we have lived.

Q: How does living each day as a new life create an amazing life?

A: Life can be amazing only if we make each day a new life. When we treat each day as a new life — fresh, free from the past, unafraid of the future — we bring our full energy and attention to Today. We make the best choices Today. We plant the best seeds Today. We love fully Today. We give generously Today. We are grateful Today. And when Tomorrow arrives as Today, we bring the same approach again. Day by day, amazing day after amazing day, an amazing life is built. Life is made up of days — make each day amazing.

Q: What is the key message of the opening poem?

A: The opening poem summarises the entire book in verse: 'Today is a New Day, today is a New Life — why let the Future and the Past create Misery and Strife? A New Day has Started, Yesterday is Gone — why worry about Tomorrow, which is not yet Born? We Can't Change what's Over, but we Can Change what's happening Now — by Living Today as a New Life, we can make our Life Wow! Each Day is a New Canvas to Paint, a New Picture, a New Start — with Vibrant Colours of Happiness, make Each Day a work of Art!'

Q: How does the book define a truly lived life?

A: A truly lived life is one where each day is seized and experienced fully. It is a life where we don't just consume the days but make them count. It is a life where we fill the basket of each day with peace, love and bliss — not thorns of worry and regret. It is a life where we wake up each morning as if it is a birthday, live each moment as the gift it is, give before we are gone, and go to sleep in peace. It is a life lived in day-tight compartments — each day a complete, beautiful, new life in itself.

Q: What is the importance of filling each day with laughter and cheer?

A: Fill your day with laughter and cheer — smiles and joys must fill each day of the year! Each day, lived Happppily makes it a Happppy life! Laughter is medicine for the Soul. Cheer is the natural state of one who lives in Today without the burdens of Yesterday and Tomorrow. When we choose to smile, when we choose to laugh, when we choose to celebrate small moments, we are actively filling the canvas of Today with bright colours. This daily practice of joyful living is the art of making each day a masterpiece.
