

WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO WITH 'TODAY'.

TOPIC: TODAY- THE PRECIOUS GIFT

Q: What is 'Today' and why is it so important?

A: Today is a gift. That is why it is called the 'Present'. It comes to us with 1440 diamonds — each minute is a true treasure. Either we can fill it with pleasure or let misery and pain rule again and again. Today is yours. Your day belongs to you, nobody else. Nobody can steal your today. Today is not like money you can deposit in a bank — you have to live every minute of today. If you don't use the day, you will lose the day.

Q: How many precious minutes does each day give us?

A: Each day has 1440 precious minutes, each more valuable than any currency of the world. We can use the day to make our life or break our life. It is very sad that many people, when asked what they are doing, reply that they are 'killing' time, 'passing' time. They never realize the value of a day. Those 1440 minutes are a treasure — we can fill them with joy, wisdom, love and growth, or we can waste them and lose the opportunity forever.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 1: 'Today' Is Yours... You Can Use It Or Lose It!, Page 10-11

Q: Why does 'Today' escape us?

A: Today escapes us because we are caught in the past or the future. The monkey mind jumps to a 'Yesterday' that is gone and a 'Tomorrow' not yet born. We forget that 'Today' is the only real moment we have. Days create weeks; weeks create months and months create our life. If we let today slip away, then our life itself will escape. The opportunity is today. The opportunity is now. But 'Now' just passed away. Moments are coming and moments are going. Time waits for none.

Q: Can we make up for lost days?

A: Can you do anything about yesterday? It is gone! Last week, last month, last year, nobody can go back there. Many people let 'Today' escape. Then their yesterdays are full of regret. People say 'I would have, I could have, I should have!' but you can't change the past. However, you can take charge of 'Today'. You don't have to weep — you can simply choose to use today wisely, right now, starting this very moment.

Q: What is the biggest mistake we make with 'Today'?

A: One of the biggest mistakes we make is that we let 'Today' escape us. 'Today', the present, is our greatest gift. Either we can choose to use the day or we can lose the day. How many people are truly living their life? People wake up in the morning and they consume the day. But how many people are actually making the best of their day? We are so lost in meaningless pursuits of people, possessions and pleasures that we forget to discover the true purpose of life.

Q: Why is 'Today' called the 'Present'?

A: Today is called the 'Present' because it is a gift — the greatest gift we have. Unlike 'Yesterday' which is gone and 'Tomorrow' which is not yet born, 'Today' is in our hands. We can do something with it right now. The word 'present' holds a double meaning: the present moment in time, and a gift. Today is the only real gift we truly possess. If we realize this truth, we will never take a single moment of today for granted.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 41: Today, Will You Make It A Celebration Or Live In Desperation?, Page 90

Q: How should we approach each day of our life?

A: We must approach each day with awareness and intention. We must ask: 'What am I going to do with Today?' We can make it a celebration or let it slip into desperation. We can fill it with bliss or unhappiness. We can do good Karma or waste the day in confusion. The choice is ours. Every day is a new opportunity to take one step forward on the journey of Self-Realization, or to simply let it become another yesterday filled with regret.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 41: Today, Will You Make It A Celebration Or Live In Desperation?, Page 90-91

Q: What happens if we keep letting 'Today' slip away?

A: If we keep letting 'Today' slip away, our life itself will escape us. What is life? It is made up of years that are made up of days. If we let moments escape us, even before we know it, our 'Today' has become 'Yesterday' and our life has been lost. One day, this life will end and then, even if we decide that we want to make the best of our life, we wouldn't be able to. We would have lost the opportunity forever.

Q: What does it mean to 'use' Today versus 'lose' Today?

A: To 'use' Today means to fill every minute with purposeful action — with love, wisdom, good Karma, prayer, service, Self-Realization, joy and conscious living. To 'lose' Today means to let the mind take over: to be caught in fear and worry, to react to others' opinions, to be trapped in past regrets or future anxieties, to sleep through the day, to waste time in meaningless distractions. The choice is entirely ours in every single moment.

Q: How does the author use his own 'Today'?

A: The author shares that he does not waste a single day, nor a single minute of a day. He lives as a Yogi, ever united with the Divine. Even when he was a businessman working 18 hours a day, 7 days a week, he used his time for creativity, innovation and service. After his Enlightenment in 2014, his direction changed completely — away from Achievement and towards Enlightenment, Liberation and Unification. He is so protective of his time that he calls himself a great miser with minutes.

Q: What is the relationship between 'Today' and life's purpose?

A: Today is not just about productivity — it is about discovering the purpose of our existence. We can use today to find out who we are, why we came to this earth, why we are not a dog or a frog, a butterfly, a bee or a tree. We can use today to read, to seek, to question, to meditate, to serve others and to discover the Truth. If we discover our purpose today, our life becomes meaningful. If we keep losing today, we die without knowing why we lived.

Q: What is the poem in the book saying about 'Today'?

A: The poem asks powerfully: 'What are you going to do with Today? Are you going to be Sad or Glad? Are you going to be caught in some useless Thought? Are you going to live in Fear or Cheer? Will you just Think, Blink and Sink? Are you going to live in Yoga or Bhoga? Are you going to just Live or each day will you Give? Are you going to choose Peace and Joy and Bliss?' The poem challenges us to make a conscious choice about how we live each day.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Poem, Page 116-119

Q: How does wasting 'Today' relate to wasting life?

A: Life is made up of days. Each day is a building block of life. If we waste our days, we waste our life. It is as simple as that. People often wait for 'someday' to be happy, 'someday' to do something meaningful, 'someday' to realize the truth. But there is no 'someday'. There is only 'Today'. If we do not make the best of today and repeat this every day, then we have made the best of our life. But if we let today slip away, then life itself has slipped away.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Preface, Page 6-7

Q: What should we ask ourselves every morning?

A: Every morning, we should stop and ask ourselves: 'What are you going to do with Today?' Are you going to let the mind run your day with fear, worry, stress and anxiety? Or are you going to take charge of today with consciousness, awareness and intention? Are you going to react or respond? Are you going to be in Yoga or Bhoga? Are you going to give or just take? Today is in your hands. Make a conscious choice at the start of each day.

Q: What is the connection between 'Today' and eternity?

A: As the poem at the beginning of the book says: 'Life is just a minute, only 60 seconds in it, forced upon you, can't refuse it. Didn't seek it, didn't choose it, but it is up to you to use it. You must suffer if you lose it. Give an account if you abuse it. Just a tiny little minute, but eternity is in it!' Every moment of today contains the seed of eternity. How we use this moment determines not just today but the trajectory of our entire spiritual journey.

TOPIC: MIND AND CONSCIOUSNESS

Q: What is the mind and why is it a rascal?

A: The mind is a rascal. It appears to exist, although in reality, it does not. It is just an illusion — a bundle of thoughts. But the mind dominates our existence. It appears as king, when in reality, it causes all our suffering. The mind thinks up to 50,000 thoughts a day — thoughts of fear, worry, stress and anxiety. The mind makes us blind. It makes us unable to see black and white, wrong and right. Therefore, we make wrong choices and end up with wrong decisions in life.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 19: Today, Will You Allow Your Mind To Make You Blind?, Page 46-47

Q: What is the difference between the mind and the intellect?

A: The mind is a monkey — it jumps from thought to thought, creating fear, worry, stress and anxiety. The intellect is the boss — it discriminates between right and wrong, good and bad. When we are impulsive and in a state of mind, we react. But if we are in a state of Consciousness, we pause, reflect and then respond with the intellect. Most of us don't realize the difference. We let the mind fool us, while the intellect waits to be activated and take charge.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 8: Today, Will You Use Your Mind Or Intellect?, Page 24-25

Q: What is Consciousness?

A: Consciousness is not just being awake or alive. It is a state of thoughtlessness — also known as mindfulness. When the mind is still and thoughts are subdued, we are in Consciousness. In this state, we are aware, peaceful and in full control of our thoughts. We can activate the intellect and discriminate. Without Consciousness, we are slaves to the mind — trapped and caught in thought till we reach our grave. Today, the choice is: will you be in Consciousness or in the thoughts of your mind?

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 9: Today, Will You Be In Thoughts Or In Consciousness?, Page 26-27

Q: What is the monkey mind?

A: The monkey mind is the restless, jumping nature of the mind. Just like a monkey jumps from branch to branch, the mind jumps from thought to thought. First, it jumps to a 'Yesterday' that is gone. Then it jumps to a 'Tomorrow' not yet born. Every thought creates junk — thoughts of fear, worry, stress and anxiety. The monkey mind has a tail, the EY — Ever Yelling and Ever Yearning. As long as we do not cut the tail of the monkey mind, in thought we will be caught.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 22: Today, Will You Tame Your Monkey Mind Into A Monk?, Page 52

Q: How can we tame the monkey mind into a monk?

A: We can tame the monkey mind by choosing to still the mind. We must watch it, catch it and latch it. Then thoughts will subdue and peace will be restored. Just as a greedy monkey who put its hand into a jar full of bananas got its hand stuck because it tried to grab too much — our mind gets stuck when it tries to grab too many thoughts. We must let go. When we still the mind, kill the mind, we become like a peaceful monk — free from the constant jumping of thoughts.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 22: Today, Will You Tame Your Monkey Mind Into A Monk?, Page 52-53

Q: What is the 'Stop it, Crop it, Chop it and Drop it' method?

A: This is the method for dealing with rotten thoughts that keep coming back and stealing our peace. First, STOP it — identify the rotten thought and stop it in its tracks. Then, CROP it — trim it down and reduce its power. Then, CHOP it — cut it off completely. Finally, DROP it — permanently discard it so it can never return. There is no compromise. If we don't follow this method, that stupid thought will return and again and again steal our peace and our bliss.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 27: Today, Will You Be Caught In A Rotten Thought Or Will You Stop It, Crop It, Chop It And Drop It?, Page 62-63

Q: Why does the mind make us blind?

A: As long as we are caught in the thoughts of the mind, we are blind — we cannot see clearly. The mind makes us unable to see black and white, wrong and right. Therefore, we make wrong choices and end up with wrong decisions in life. The mind appears to be a king in charge, but it is actually the cause of all our blindness and suffering. We don't even realize that it is the mind that makes us blind. Many of us are living under the illusion that the mind is our friend.

Q: What is the story of the man on the horse?

A: There was once a man who was riding a horse. Somebody asked him, 'Where are you going?' He replied, 'I don't know. Ask the horse!' We are all like this man. We have given over the command of our life to the horse — the mind. Few of us live as the boss, where we take charge of our life and decide both our direction and our destination. The horse is the mind; the boss is the intellect. Today, will you be the boss or let your mind ride the horse of your life?

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 24: Today, Will You Be The Boss Or Let Your Mind Ride The Horse?, Page 56-57

Q: What are the 5 senses and their role in the mind?

A: Our life is like a chariot driven by 5 horses — our 5 senses: the eyes, the nose, the ears, the tongue and the skin. These senses are pulled by the reins which are our thoughts. We are slaves first of the 5 senses of our body. Then, we are slaves of the mind and finally, slaves of the ego. Unless we activate the intellect and take charge of the senses through conscious living, we remain prisoners of the 5 horses — driven wherever they wish to go.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 24: Today, Will You Be The Boss Or Let Your Mind Ride The Horse?, Page 56-57

Q: What is 'Rottenthoughtitis'?

A: Rottenthoughtitis is the disease of being caught in rotten, stupid thoughts again and again. The same thought comes back and we are so stupid that we let that stupid thought steal our peace and our bliss. Not only does it get us caught in misery but it makes us unhappy, again and again. The solution is to Stop it, Crop it, Chop it and Drop it. That rotten thought must not be permitted to enter our head because we have ensured it is dead.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 27: Today, Will You Be Caught In A Rotten Thought Or Will You Stop It, Crop It, Chop It And Drop It?, Page 62

Q: How does the mind create confusion?

A: The mind creates confusion because it is bombarding us with thoughts constantly. What should I eat this or that? Should I buy this or is the other one better? People's lives are so full of shades of grey that they fall prey to the confusion created by their mind. It is not just about eating and drinking — it is about having clarity in life. The mind, not the brain, is the problem. The brain is just an organ used by the mind or the intellect to create confusion or conclusion.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 37: Today, Will You Live With Confusion Or Make A Conclusion?, Page 82-83

Q: What is the state of thoughtlessness?

A: Thoughtlessness is the highest state of the mind — where the mind is completely still and there are no thoughts. This is true Consciousness. This is also known as mindfulness. In this state, we are at peace, fully aware, fully present. The lake of our mind is still with no ripples. In this state, we can activate the intellect and discriminate clearly. Very few people experience this state because the mind is always waiting to bombard us with new thoughts.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 9: Today, Will You Be In Thoughts Or In Consciousness?, Page 26-27

Q: How do we move from reaction to response?

A: When we are impulsive and in a state of mind, we immediately react. But if we are in a state of Consciousness, we do not react. We pause, reflect and then respond. When we react, it is the mind at work. When we respond, it is our intellect. Sam never lost his patience — whether in a restaurant or receiving a serious legal notice, he would read it calmly, question what needed to be done and then respond intelligently. Today, the choice is to react with RDX or respond with wisdom.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 16: Today, Will You React Or Will You Respond?, Page 40-41

Q: Why does the mind cause suffering even in sleep?

A: Not only do we suffer on earth but the mind also creates Karma along with the ego and when the body dies, ME — the Mind and Ego — carries its Karma to a new birth on earth, only to make us continue our suffering in the guise of a king. The mind is not just a daytime problem — it follows us through lives. Unless we kill the mind by stilling it and realizing the truth, we will remain slaves of the mind in this life and the next.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 35: Today, Will You Make Your Mind King And Let It Cause Suffering?, Page 78-79

Q: What is the ultimate solution to the problem of the mind?

A: The ultimate solution is to still the mind and kill the mind — not physically but by realizing it does not truly exist. The mind is just a bundle of thoughts. It has no independent existence. When we reach the state of Consciousness — that state of thoughtlessness and mindfulness — the mind is no more. We become free. We realize we are neither the body nor the mind. We are the Divine Soul. When the mind is gone, suffering ends and Enlightenment begins.

TOPIC: HAPPINESS AND BLISS

Q: What are the 3 Peaks of Happiness?

A: The First Peak of Happiness is Achievement — chasing success, wealth, name and fame. We think pleasure is happiness. But pleasures are momentary and ephemeral. The Second Peak of Happiness is Fulfilment — living with contentment and peace, which is the foundation of happiness. Those who scale this peak are far happier than those chasing achievement. The Third Peak of Happiness is Enlightenment — the ultimate peak where we realize the Truth of who we are and experience Eternal Bliss.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 21: Today, Will You Seek The Ultimate Peak?, Page 50-51

Q: Is happiness a choice?

A: Happiness is a choice. But most of us don't realize this. We are waiting to become happy, instead of just being happy. Today we can make a choice — we can be glad or we can be sad. If somebody chooses to be sad, they are mad! We all want to be happy. Unfortunately, we have not learned the art of being happy in the 'now'. The author made a vow: 'I will not let a moment pass in misery, in negativity. I have decided to live my life moment by moment, with bliss and peace.'

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 5: Today, Will You Be Glad Or Sad?, Page 18

Q: Why doesn't success bring lasting happiness?

A: Success brings momentary pleasure, not lasting happiness. Pleasures are ephemeral. The happiness from pleasure does not last. Therefore, success — which brings pleasure — cannot be the source of true happiness. We are taught that winning is not the main thing, it is the only thing. We compete with each other and chase achievement. But even after achieving everything, we find that the happiness fades. True happiness lies not in achievement but in Enlightenment — the realization of who we truly are.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 21: Today, Will You Seek The Ultimate Peak?, Page 50-51

Q: What is the difference between pleasure and bliss?

A: Pleasure is momentary and external — it comes from people, possessions and material experiences. It fades quickly and leaves us wanting more. Bliss is eternal and internal — it comes from realizing who we truly are, from being connected to the Divine, from stillness of mind and peace of Soul. When we are intoxicated with wine, we feel a momentary euphoria only to land in eternal unhappiness when we awaken. But the Divine intoxication of bliss lasts forever.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 30: Today, Will You Be Intoxicated By Wine Or Be Blissful Being In Union With The Divine?, Page 68-69

Q: What is PEP and NEP and how do they affect happiness?

A: PEP is Positive Energy Power — a set of emotions like faith, hope, belief, trust, enthusiasm, love, compassion, kindness, courage, confidence and optimism. NEP is Negative Energy Poison — emotions like fear, anger, hate, worry, stress, anxiety and depression. If we choose PEP, our thoughts and attitude will be positive and we will be happy. If we choose NEP, there is no way of escaping from negativity and misery. Today, we have a choice — will our day be joyous with PEP or miserable with NEP?

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 7: Today, Will You Live With NEP Or PEP?, Page 22-23

Q: Why do some people always cry while others always rejoice?

A: Vijay never counted his blessings. Despite having everything one could dream of, he always looked at what was missing in his life. As a child, if it was raining, he would cry because he could not go out to play. When the sun shone bright, he would complain it was too hot. What makes some people glad and some sad? It is their 'Today' — it is their present moment. By filling their 'Today' with thoughts of unhappiness, they lose their peace and bliss. Happiness is entirely a matter of choice.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 13: Today, Will You Cry Or Live With Joy?, Page 34-35

Q: What is the role of peace in happiness?

A: Peace is the very foundation of happiness. Where there is no peace, there can be no happiness. Those who scale the Second Peak of Happiness — Fulfilment — live with contentment and peace and are far happier than those caught chasing success. Peace is within — we don't have to find it. We just have to still the mind. When the mind is still, peace is restored. When peace is restored, happiness naturally follows. Peace is not something we buy; it is something we uncover by stilling the mind.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 12: Today, Will You Live With Peace Or Will Your Peace Cease?, Page 32-33

Q: How can we live with bliss instead of unhappiness?

A: We can live with bliss by realizing that we are not the body, mind and ego. Though the body may experience pain, we won't suffer if we know we are not the body. Though the mind creates negative thoughts, we can eliminate them by activating the intellect. Though the ego burns with desire, we can transcend it by realizing we are the Divine Soul. When we drop the body identity, the mind and the ego, what remains is bliss — pure, effortless, eternal.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 10: Today, Will You Live With Bliss Or Unhappiness?, Page 28-29

Q: What is the mug of 'Today' analogy?

A: Your mug of 'Today' is in your hands. You can fill it with bliss — with faith, hope, love, compassion, service and Consciousness. Or you can live as the Body, Mind and Ego and experience unhappiness Fear, worry, regret, guilt and anxiety. The mug is the same for everyone. It holds 1440 minutes. The question is: what are you going to fill it with today? The contents of your mug of today determine whether your day is one of joy or misery.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 10: Today, Will You Live With Bliss Or Unhappiness?, Page 28-29

Q: What does it mean to make 'Today' a celebration?

A: To make today a celebration means to smile and laugh and live with faith, hope, trust and enthusiasm. It means filling life with courage and confidence, with love and compassion, with optimism, as we count our blessings and celebrate each moment. For those who celebrate, their day disappears in a flash because they are having fun. But for those who don't, their day lasts forever in misery and desperation. Today, we have a choice to either let the mind fill the day with desperation or to make it a celebration.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 41: Today, Will You Make It A Celebration Or Live In Desperation?, Page 90-91

Q: Why do teenagers turn to alcohol and drugs for happiness?

A: Teenagers today are more into alcohol, smoking and drugs than ever before. It is a huge global crisis. They are searching for that kick, that ecstasy, that momentary euphoria. But when the drug knocks them out, they are temporarily transported to a land of bliss only to land in eternal unhappiness when they awaken. Wine, drugs and material pleasures are a false substitute for the real bliss that comes from being in Union with the Divine. The Divine intoxication is a thousand times greater and it lasts forever.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 30: Today, Will You Be Intoxicated By Wine Or Be Blissful Being In Union With The Divine?, Page 68-69

Q: What is the connection between counting blessings and happiness?

A: Vijay was always unhappy because he looked at what was missing, never at what he had. The secret of happiness is counting our blessings — recognizing and appreciating everything good in our life. When we focus on what we have, we feel grateful. Gratitude is the soil in which happiness grows. When we focus on what is missing, we feel deprived and miserable. Today, we can choose to look at our blessings or at our lack. That single choice determines whether today is a day of joy or sorrow.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 13: Today, Will You Cry Or Live With Joy?, Page 34-35

Q: Can we be happy even when things go wrong?

A: Things will happen to us and we cannot control them from happening. But we can choose our reaction. When something goes wrong, we can let the mind react with fear and misery, or we can respond with the intellect in peace and wisdom. Everything that is unfolding in our life is due to our Karma — our past actions. Knowing this, we can joyously accept the redemption of Karma, knowing that a past deed has been settled. This understanding brings peace even in difficult moments.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 13: Today, Will You Cry Or Live With Joy?,

Q: What is the ultimate source of happiness?

A: The ultimate source of happiness is Enlightenment — the realization of who we truly are. When we realize we are the Divine Soul, a part of the Supreme Immortal Power, we are free from all attachments, all fears, all suffering. We experience Eternal Bliss that is not dependent on any external condition. This is the Third and highest Peak of Happiness. Neither success nor fulfillment can give us this — only Realization. This is why the author says: God = Happiness.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 21: Today, Will You Seek The Ultimate Peak?, Page 50-51

Q: What are the three types of pain we experience?

A: We human beings experience 3 types of pain — pain of the body, misery of the mind and agony of the ego. There is nobody on earth who is born and escapes this triple suffering. However, we can be free from all three. If we realize we are not the body, the body's pain cannot make us suffer. If we still the mind, the mind's misery ends. If we transcend the ego, its agony disappears. We experience triple suffering as the body, mind and ego — and we are freed by realizing we are the Soul.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 28: Today, Will You Let Pain Make You Unhappy Again?, Page 64-65

TOPIC: FEAR AND WORRY

Q: What is FEAR?

A: FEAR is a False Expectation Appearing Real. More often than not, when we are miserable and unhappy, it is because of fear and worry caused by the mind. We can choose whether we want fear or cheer. Today, in the last 3 years, the world drowned in fear. A virus emerged and conquered the cheer of billions around the globe. But fear did not protect anybody — only awareness and faith did. We must remember that whatever will be, will be. We must do our best and surrender in Consciousness.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 4: Today, Will You Live With Fear Or Cheer?, Page 16-17

Q: What are the components of FAITH?

A: FAITH stands for Full Assurance In The Heart. It is the opposite of FEAR. Those who have faith live joyous and cheerful lives. They also live with HOPE — Having Only Positive Expectations — and with TRUST — Total Reliance and Unconditional Surrender to The Almighty. Those who pray and build a Divine connection have faith, hope and trust. Those who do not pray lack all three and therefore live with fear, anxiety and grey skies.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 15: Today, Will You Pray Or Let Your Skies Be Grey?, Page 38-39

Q: Is there ever a reason to worry?

A: It is foolish to worry because if there is no problem, there is no need to worry. And even if there is a problem, there is no need to worry! Why? Because if there is something you can do about your problem, then you don't need to worry — just do it! And if there is nothing you can do about your problem, then why worry? Problem or no problem, we shouldn't worry. Whether there is a solution or no solution, there is no point in worrying. Worry will occupy our head till we are dead.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 39: Today, Will You Worry Or Enjoy Your

Curry?, Page 86-87

Q: How does anxiety ruin our 'Today'?

A: Anxiety becomes the very fabric of existence for many people. Worry and stress are knitted into every second thought. Some people are anxious about what is already done and dusted — they can't change it, but they worry about it. Then they jump to some distant, faraway anxiety that is still around the corner. They imagine the anxiety. They create it. Nothing has happened yet but they worry so much, thinking something bad will happen. Such worry destroys life, peace and tranquillity.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 11: Today, Will You Live With Anxiety Or Tranquillity?, Page 30-31

Q: What is the difference between anxiety and tranquillity?

A: Anxiety is the mind creating worries about the past and future that rob us of peace. Tranquillity is the state of a still mind — peaceful, calm and present. You must remember one thing: if you let one enter, the other will leave. Anxiety and tranquillity cannot coexist. The moment we choose tranquillity — by stilling the mind, by surrendering to the Divine, by accepting what is — anxiety is pushed out. Today, we have a choice: we can live with anxiety or we can live with tranquillity.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 11: Today, Will You Live With Anxiety Or Tranquillity?, Page 30-31

Q: What is RDX in the context of daily life?

A: RDX in personal life stands for React Destroy eXplode. It is as destructive as Royal Demolition eXplosive. Every time something happens, we can either React with our mind — RDX — or Respond with our intellect — RDR (Reflect, Discriminate, Respond). RDX destroys relationships, peace and happiness. When we react to everything around us, we become demolished. We fill our 'Today' with explosions of anger, hurt and conflict instead of peace and joy.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 29: Today, Will You Let Others' Actions Trigger Your Reactions?, Page 66-67

Q: How should we handle what others say about us?

A: Today is your day. You can't control what people say. But are you going to let it spoil your day? If you let others spoil your 'Today', you are handing over your life to them. Other people's opinion doesn't have to be your reality. Different people will say different things about you. But you know best who you are and what you are. You can reflect and make changes if needed, but then continue your day to be happy. Don't let anyone else hold the keys to your happiness.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 17: Today, Will You Worry About What Others Say Or Make It Your Day?, Page 42-43

Q: What is the best response to things we cannot control?

A: We have no control over what happens around us — in our home, our neighbourhood, our city, our country, the world. Can we control everything? We can't. But can we control what is happening within us? Yes, that is entirely in our control. The best response to things we cannot control is acceptance — accept without protest. We can do our best and not protest about whatever is happening. When we resist, we create unrest. When we accept, we restore peace.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 18: Today, Will You Accept What Comes

Your Way Or Cry All Day?, Page 44-45

Q: What is the wonder vs. surrender choice?

A: Every day, life unfolds and things happen that we have no control over. We can either wonder — questioning everything, being unhappy and upset about everything — or we can surrender. If you plant apple seeds, you don't demand mangoes from the tree. You surrender and accept the apples because you know you planted apple seeds. So also in life, when we accept our Karma with surrender, we find peace. We cannot change what has already unfolded. We can only choose our response to it.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 23: Today, Will You Wonder Or Surrender?, Page 54-55

Q: What is the COVID pandemic teaching us about fear?

A: In the last 3 years, the world drowned in fear. A virus emerged and conquered the cheer of billions around the globe. We saw countless people live in fear every single moment. But fear did not heal anyone. Only medical care, awareness and faith helped. Fear is a False Expectation Appearing Real. The pandemic showed us how destructive fear can be — it steals our peace, our joy and our today. We must do our best, take care, but not let fear rule our 1440 precious minutes.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 4: Today, Will You Live With Fear Or Cheer?, Page 16-17

Q: How do we stop worrying about the future?

A: The key to stopping worry about the future is to stay in the present moment — in 'Today'. The mind is a time machine that drags us to a past filled with regret and a future filled with anxiety. But we can take charge of the mind through the intellect. We can remember that everything in the future is governed by our Karma — by what we do today. And having done our best today, we must surrender the rest to the Divine Will. Whatever will be, will be.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 39: Today, Will You Worry Or Enjoy Your Curry?, Page 86-87

Q: Why do our skies become grey and how do we make them blue again?

A: Our skies become cloudy and grey because we do not pray. Because we live lonely, secluded lives without a connection to the Divine, we live with fear, worry, stress and anxiety. But somebody who has faith and lives with devotion, somebody who believes, trusts and lives with enthusiasm — such a person lives a joyous and cheerful life. To make our skies blue again, we must build a Divine connection through prayer, faith, hope and trust. Today, we can choose to pray or let our skies stay grey.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 15: Today, Will You Pray Or Let Your Skies Be Grey?, Page 38-39

Q: What happens when we live with fear for too long?

A: When we live with fear for too long, fear becomes the very lens through which we see the world. Worry and stress are knitted into every second thought. Our life becomes full of misery and sorrow. We become imprisoned — imprisoned in thoughts of fear, regret, guilt, shame, worry, stress, anxiety and depression. The mind, which was supposed to serve us, becomes our jailer. We lose our 1440 precious minutes of today to fear, and thus we lose our life to fear.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 38: Today, Will You Be Enlightened Or

Q: How is fear connected to ignorance?

A: Fear is rooted in ignorance. We fear death because we don't know the truth that we are the immortal Soul. We fear the future because we don't understand Karma. We fear God's punishment because we believe the lie that God is an angry judge in the sky. When we gain wisdom and realize the Truth — that we are the Soul, that Karma governs everything justly, that God is love — all these fears dissolve. Enlightenment is the ultimate cure for fear.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 33: Today, Will You Get To The Root To Realize The Truth?, Page 74-75

Q: What is the relationship between pain and suffering?

A: Pain and suffering are not the same thing. Every 'body' experiences pain but we don't have to suffer that pain. If only we realize we are not the body, then although the body will experience pain, we will not suffer because we are not the body. The mind experiences misery through thoughts of guilt, fear and anxiety. The ego experiences agony through anger and desire. But the Soul experiences none of this. When we identify with the Soul, pain cannot make us suffer.

TOPIC: KARMA AND ACTION

Q: What is Karma?

A: Karma means action. The Law of Karma is based on the principle: 'As you sow, so shall you reap.' Karma works like a boomerang — what goes around comes around. What you do comes back to you. It is because of this law that we get what we give. Everything that is unfolding in our life is because of Karma. There is nothing like luck or fate, nor is it a God who is sitting in a distant heaven controlling our destiny. The seeds we plant decide the fruits on our tree of life.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 20: Today, Will You Do Good Karma Or Question The Drama?, Page 48-49

Q: How does Karma connect to today?

A: Today, we can choose our actions — good or bad — and by doing so, we will also be choosing our future. What is going to happen tomorrow is directly related to what we are doing today. Not only the Karma of today but all our Karma of our past that has not been settled remain in our account and appear in life, one by one. Therefore, today we can choose good Karma and plant positive seeds that will bear good fruits in our future.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 20: Today, Will You Do Good Karma Or Question The Drama?, Page 48-49

Q: Why do we react to others and how does it create new Karma?

A: When we react to others' actions — when we get angry, hurt and explode — we create new Karma. We plant a new negative seed and this deed will bear fruit in the future. Instead, if we realize that everything is happening as per Karma, not only will we calmly respond and not react but we will also joyously accept the redemption of Karma, knowing that a past deed has been settled. Reacting creates more Karma; responding with wisdom settles Karma.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 29: Today, Will You Let Others' Actions

Trigger Your Reactions?, Page 66-67

Q: What does 'as you sow, so shall you reap' mean in daily life?

A: Every action we take — in thought, word and deed — is a seed we plant. Just as we can't demand mangoes from a tree where we planted apple seeds, we can't expect love if we plant hate, peace if we plant anger, or good fortune if we plant dishonesty. Everything that is unfolding in our life is due to our Karma, our past actions. This understanding helps us accept difficult situations peacefully, knowing they are the fruit of seeds we planted — perhaps in past lives.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 13: Today, Will You Cry Or Live With Joy?, Page 34-35

Q: What is the difference between doing good Karma and questioning the drama?

A: Doing good Karma means choosing our actions wisely today — with love, compassion, honesty and service — knowing they will create our future. Questioning the drama means waking up to the fact that this entire world is a cosmic drama and seeking to understand its deeper meaning. We can choose good Karma as we live in the world, or we can go on a deeper quest to realize the Truth behind this drama. Ideally, we do both — live with good Karma while seeking Realization.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 20: Today, Will You Do Good Karma Or Question The Drama?, Page 48-49

Q: How does Karma explain why bad things happen to good people?

A: Nothing happens by chance. Just like the seed we plant will decide the fruit on the tree, the deeds we plant decide our destiny. What seems like bad luck is actually the fruit of seeds planted — perhaps in past lives. Even good people carry Karma from past lives and must experience its fruits. This is not God's cruelty; it is the perfect justice of the Law of Karma. Understanding this helps us accept difficulties without bitterness and respond with grace.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 13: Today, Will You Cry Or Live With Joy?, Page 34-35

Q: What happens to our Karma when we die?

A: When the body dies, ME — the Mind and Ego — carries its Karma to a new birth on earth. All the Karma that has not been settled in this life is carried forward. This is the cycle of death and rebirth. We are reborn again and again until all Karma is settled. When all Karma is transcended and we realize who we truly are — the Divine Soul — we attain Liberation, and there is no more rebirth. We are united with the Supreme Immortal Power forever.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 35: Today, Will You Make Your Mind King And Let It Cause Suffering?, Page 78-79

Q: Can we choose to do good Karma every single day?

A: Yes! Today, we have a choice. We can choose our actions, good or bad. We can choose to act with love, compassion, kindness, honesty and service. We can choose to give rather than just take. We can choose to help rather than harm. We can choose to respond rather than react. Every one of these choices is a seed of good Karma that will bear fruit in our life. The beauty of Karma is that every 'Today' is a new opportunity to plant good seeds.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 20: Today, Will You Do Good Karma Or Question The Drama?, Page 48-49

Q: What is the Karma of giving?

A: When we give, we plant seeds of generosity and love. We don't realize that there is joy when we spend, but we don't realize this before our end. People are making money every day, till their last day of existence. Soon, they are gone. Ironically, they cannot take with them even a penny. Give before you are gone. You don't have a choice — if you don't give, it will anyway be snatched away. Open your eyes: you come with nothing and you will go with nothing. Let us give as we live.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 25: Today, Will You Just Live Or Will You Give?, Page 58-59

Q: What is the Law of Karma and how is it different from luck?

A: The Law of Karma is different from luck. Luck implies randomness — things happening by chance. But nothing happens by chance. The Law of Karma says that every effect has a cause, and every action has a corresponding reaction. What we experience today — good or bad — is the fruit of seeds we have planted, either in this life or past lives. There is no such thing as luck or fate. God is not a person sitting in a distant heaven deciding our fate. The Law of Karma is the governing principle.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 20: Today, Will You Do Good Karma Or Question The Drama?, Page 48-49

Q: How can we transcend Karma?

A: We can transcend Karma by realizing the Truth — by attaining Enlightenment. When we realize we are the Divine Soul, not the body, mind and ego, we stop identifying with the doer. Actions happen but we are not the doer. When there is no doer, no new Karma is created. All old Karma is settled. This is Liberation — Moksha. It is freedom from the cycle of birth and death, from the endless cycle of planting seeds and reaping fruits. Realization ends the cycle.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 45: Today, Will You Have A Realization That Will Lead To Your Liberation?, Page 98-99

Q: What should we do when someone does something wrong to us?

A: When someone does something wrong to us, we must realize three things: first, we have no control over others' free will and choices. Second, if we react with anger and revenge, we create new negative Karma for ourselves. Third, everything happening is as per Karma — perhaps this is the settlement of an old Karmic debt. With this understanding, we can calmly respond rather than react. We can accept what comes our way with grace and continue our day in peace.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 29: Today, Will You Let Others' Actions Trigger Your Reactions?, Page 66-67

Q: Is free will real if Karma governs everything?

A: Yes, free will is real. Each one of us has a free will. We can choose to do what we wish to do. The seeds of our future are planted by the choices we make today. Our past Karma creates the circumstances we find ourselves in, but how we respond to those circumstances — with wisdom or with reaction, with love or with anger — is entirely our free will. Every choice we make is a new seed. Karma governs the fruit; free will plants the seed.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 18: Today, Will You Accept What Comes Your Way Or Cry All Day?, Page 44-45

Q: How does living as a Divine instrument relate to Karma?

A: When we live as a Divine instrument, we act without ego — we do what needs to be done as an instrument of God, without attachment to results. In this state, no new Karma is created because there is no ego claiming to be the doer. We become free from the Karmic cycle. As the book says: 'Those who suffer greatly because of their attachment are instantly liberated as they live as the Divine instrument.' Living as a Divine instrument is the highest form of action.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 42: Today, Will You Live With Attachment Or As A Divine Instrument?, Page 92-93

Q: What is the connection between attachment and Karma?

A: Attachment is one of the major causes of suffering because it leads to expectations, and expectations lead to disappointment and more Karma. Because we are attached to people and possessions, we become unhappy when things don't go our way. We react, get frustrated and even heartbroken — and each reaction plants new seeds of Karma. When we realize that nothing is truly ours and we live with detachment, we are free from the cycle of attachment-reaction-Karma.

TOPIC: YOGA, PRAYER AND DIVINE CONNECTION

Q: What is true Yoga?

A: True Yoga is not just a set of body postures and breathing exercises. Yoga means 'Yuj' or union — and true Yoga is the union between the Soul and the Supreme. It is a constant connect between the human being and the Divine. It is a bond between man and God. If man is connected to his Lord, he is in Yoga. But if he is disconnected from the Divine, then he sinks in this world of pleasures and gets immersed in the material world — in a state called Bhoga.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 6: Today, Will You Be In Yoga Or Bhoga?, Page 20

Q: What is Bhoga?

A: Bhoga is the state of being disconnected from the Divine and immersed in the material world — in pleasures, possessions and people. When our SIM card gets disconnected from its network, it roams into other networks and loses connectivity. Similarly, when we are disconnected from God, we lose ourselves in Bhoga — in material pleasures that are temporary and leave us empty. Bhoga may feel pleasurable for a moment but ultimately leads to emptiness and suffering.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 6: Today, Will You Be In Yoga Or Bhoga?, Page 20-21

Q: Why should we pray?

A: We should pray because prayer builds a Divine connection. Without prayer, our skies become grey we live with fear, worry, stress and anxiety. But somebody who has faith and lives with devotion, somebody who believes, trusts and lives with enthusiasm — such a person lives a joyous and cheerful life. Such a person realizes that he is nothing — just a speck of Divine energy having a human experience on earth. Prayer connects us to the Source and fills us with faith, hope and trust.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 15: Today, Will You Pray Or Let Your Skies Be Grey?, Page 38-39

Q: What is the difference between praying and braying?

A: Many of us pray but we do not realize to whom we pray, why we pray and what we say when we pray. If we don't know, then we don't pray — we just bray! True prayer is a conscious, loving connection with the Divine. It is not a mechanical recitation of words we don't understand. It is the heartfelt yearning of the Soul for the Supreme. When there is this deep yearning for God, love for God, we will realize God. Prayer without understanding is noise; prayer with love is a door to God.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 31: Today, Are You Going To Love The One Above?, Page 70-71

Q: What is the Divine connection and how do we build it?

A: A Divine connection is the bond between our Soul and God, the Supreme Immortal Power. We build it through prayer, devotion, faith, surrender and love. When we start a Spiritual journey, when we question our beliefs, when we go on a quest to realize the Truth — we are building the Divine connection. As long as we are in Yoga — connected to the Divine — neither can the allurements of the material world nor the passions for material pleasures drag us into Bhoga.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 6: Today, Will You Be In Yoga Or Bhoga?, Page 20-21

Q: What is the SIM card analogy about Yoga?

A: A SIM card stays connected to its network as long as it is active. When it gets disconnected from its network, it roams into other networks and loses quality of connection. Similarly, our Soul is connected to God, the Supreme Network. As long as we are in Yoga — constantly united with the Divine — we don't lose our connection with the Lord. But when we disconnect and sink into Bhoga, we start roaming in the network of material pleasures and lose the clarity and bliss of Divine connection.

Q: What is the Divine intoxication?

A: When we are in union with the Divine, we experience a bliss that is a thousand times greater than the intoxication of wine or drugs. The Divine intoxication is permanent, not momentary. It does not leave us with a hangover of misery. It fills us with eternal peace, joy and love. When we experience SIP the Supreme Immortal Power — in every chip of this universe, we are in Divine intoxication. This is the true high that every human being is unknowingly searching for.

Q: How do we love 'The One Above'?

A: We love the One Above by seeing God not just in temples and shrines, but in every Soul — in every human being, in every living creature, in every particle of matter. Today, are we going to be lost in worldly love, or in every Soul, are we going to discover the One Above? True love for God is expressed not just in prayer but in how we treat every living being, since God is present in all. When we love all as God, we are truly loving the One Above.

Q: What does the author say about his own experience of Yoga?

A: The author shares that after his Enlightenment in 2014, he lives as a Yogi — ever united with the Divine. He does not waste a single day nor a single minute. He lives not for his own desires but as an instrument of God, doing His Divine Will. Even now, every day is fully utilized — not for personal achievement but for helping people discover the way to Eternal Happiness through Enlightenment. This is living in Yoga — every action aligned with the Divine.

Q: What is the difference between religion and Spirituality?

A: Religion is just a kindergarten of Spirituality. We go to school and university for all kinds of knowledge but when it comes to God and religion, we remain in kindergarten throughout our life. We do not evolve to the University of Spirituality. We just believe in the lies and look up and pray into the skies, as if God lives on a distant planet. We don't stop to realize God is SIP — a Supreme Immortal Power, birthless and deathless — present in everything.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 46: Today, Will You Believe The Lie That God Lives In The Sky?, Page 100-101

Q: What happens when we are disconnected from the Divine?

A: When we are disconnected from the Divine, we sink into Bhoga — the material world of pleasures, possessions and people. We live with fear, worry, stress and anxiety. Our skies become cloudy and grey. We lack FAITH, HOPE and TRUST. We react to everything around us, creating more Karma and more suffering. Without the Divine connection, we are like a phone disconnected from its network — unable to communicate, unable to receive the signal of Divine wisdom and peace.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 15: Today, Will You Pray Or Let Your Skies Be Grey?, Page 38-39

Q: What is the role of surrender in spiritual life?

A: Surrender is one of the most important aspects of spiritual life. We must learn to surrender to the Divine Will — to accept what comes our way and do our best without protesting or fighting against what we cannot change. Surrender is not weakness; it is wisdom. When we surrender the outcome to God after doing our best, we are freed from anxiety. When we stop demanding mangoes from an apple tree, we can enjoy the apples in peace. Surrender is the gateway to tranquillity.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 23: Today, Will You Wonder Or Surrender?, Page 54-55

Q: How can we make every day a spiritual day?

A: We can make every day a spiritual day by choosing to be conscious in every moment — by activating the intellect over the mind, by responding rather than reacting, by doing good Karma, by praying and building a Divine connection, by giving rather than just taking, by seeking Self-Realization and by living as a Divine instrument. Spirituality is not something we do on weekends in a temple. It is the way we approach every moment of every 'Today' — with awareness, love and surrender.

Q: What is the goal of a Yogi?

A: The goal of a Yogi is Liberation and Unification — freedom from the cycle of birth and death and union with the Supreme Immortal Power. A Yogi lives in constant Yoga — constantly connected to the Divine. A Yogi does not live for personal gain but as an instrument of God. A Yogi has stilled the monkey mind and made it a monk. A Yogi has transcended the ego and lives as the Divine Soul. For a Yogi, every moment of 'Today' is sacred and fully utilized in service of the Divine.

Q: What is the purpose of spiritual seeking?

A: The purpose of spiritual seeking is to discover the Truth — to find out who we are, why we came to earth and what happens after we die. Today, will we have a Realization that will lead to our Liberation?

Will today be just another day or will we make it a day of education, a day of seeking information, a day of motivation and inspiration and ultimately a day of Realization? Spiritual seeking is the highest use of our 'Today' — for it leads us to Liberation and Unification with the Divine.

TOPIC: GOD AND SELF - REALIZATION

Q: Who is God, in reality?

A: God is not a person sitting in the skies. God is SIP — the Supreme Immortal Power. God is a Power that is birthless and deathless. God is everywhere, in everything. God is not one with name and form. God is SIP — the energy that is in every chip of this universe. The whole universe, animate and inanimate, is nothing but SIP. We are taught lies from the time we are born — that God lives in the skies. But the truth is that God is the Power that gives life to everything.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 46: Today, Will You Believe The Lie That God Lives In The Sky?, Page 100-101

Q: What does SIP stand for?

A: SIP stands for Supreme Immortal Power. God is not God in the traditional sense — God is the Supreme Immortal Power. God is Supreme — beyond all else. God is Immortal — birthless and deathless. And God is Power — not a person but an energy. Scientists found that when they broke down matter to its tiniest particle — the Quark — it disappeared under a microscope. They realized the particle of matter was nothing but energy. That energy is SIP. Everything in this universe is SIP.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 49: Today, Will You Experience SIP In Every Chip?, Page 106-107

Q: How do we realize God?

A: We cannot find God — we have to experience the presence of the Divine everywhere, in everything. This is called God-Realization. But it happens after Self-Realization. To realize God, we must first realize who we truly are — that we are the Soul, not the body, mind and ego. When there is this deep yearning for God, love for God, we will realize God. Today, we must start a quest for Self-Realization, for it is only after Self-Realization that God-Realization is possible.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 47: Today, Will You Pray To A God With Bone And Skin Or To The Divine Within?, Page 102-103

Q: What is the lie that God lives in the sky?

A: From the time we are born, we are taught the lies that God lives in the skies. We are taught about heaven and hell, indoctrinated with rituals, dogmas and superstitions. We are made to live with the fear of God. We believe God is angry, judging and punishing. We look up and pray into the skies, as if God lives on a distant planet, on a star far away. But God is SIP — a Supreme Immortal Power, birthless and deathless — not a person in the sky but the Power in everything.

Q: Who am I, in reality?

A: I am not the body that was born and will die. The truth is you are not the mind. Where is the mind? You cannot find it! Is there any doubt that your ego is a false identity? If you are not the body, mind and ego, but you exist, then who are you in reality? You are the Divine Soul — the Spark Of Unique Life. Many people think they have a Soul, but the truth is that we ARE the Soul. SOUL — a Spark Of Unique Life. I arrived 9 months before my so-called birthday and I am immortal.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 50: Today, Will You Live As The Soul And Achieve Your Goal?, Page 108-109

Q: How does the ego prevent God-Realization?

A: The ego says 'I', 'me' and 'mine'. We keep saying, 'I want a glass of water. This is my father. This pizza is mine.' Whatever we do, we identify with the ego. But we don't spend enough time to realize — who is this 'I' that says 'me or mine'? Look at the word EGO — it has an E, or I, meaning Ego is rooted in I. Because we do not let go of the ego, we let go of God. As long as the ego says 'I, me and mine', God will only be in a shrine, not in our heart.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 48: Today, Will You Realize God Or Let Your Ego Steal The Lord?, Page 104-105

Q: What is Self-Realization?

A: Self-Realization is the direct experience of the Truth of who we are — that we are the Divine Soul, not the body, mind and ego. It is not intellectual knowledge but a deep, experiential awakening. When we realize the self — when we know beyond doubt that we are the immortal Soul — the ego dissolves, the mind is stilled and God-Realization follows naturally. Self-Realization is the gateway to Liberation. Today, the question is: will we take one step toward Self-Realization?

Q: Why is 'Who am I?' the most important question?

A: Why am I here? Why did I come to earth? Why did I take this human birth? These are the most important questions we can ask. Not only must we find out 'Who am I?' but we must discover the purpose of our human existence. If we do not discover the answer to these two questions, then in what way are we better than the animals, the birds, the fish and the trees? Only human beings have been given the gift of intelligence to ask and answer these questions. This is the highest use of our human birth.

Q: What does it mean to become nothing to become everything?

A: Those who think 'I am everything' become nothing. Those who realize 'I am nothing' become everything. We start life with nothing and end with nothing. Whatever things we collect, we neither brought them to earth nor can we take them with us. When we let go of the ego — when we realize 'I am nothing' — we become everything because we merge with the Supreme Immortal Power that IS everything. The drop that surrenders itself to the ocean becomes the ocean.

Q: What is SIP in every chip?

A: Scientists found that when they broke matter down to its tiniest particle — the Quark — it disappeared and was revealed to be nothing but energy. This energy cannot be created or destroyed as per the Law of Conservation of Energy. That energy is SIP — the Supreme Immortal Power. Therefore, there is SIP in every chip — in every particle of matter, animate and inanimate. The whole universe is nothing but SIP. God is not separate from creation; God IS creation.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 49: Today, Will You Experience SIP In Every Chip?, Page 106-107

Q: What is Realization and how does it lead to Liberation?

A: Realization is the direct experience of the Truth of who we are. When we realize we are the Divine Soul, a part of SIP, we transcend the cycle of Karma and rebirth. This realization leads to Liberation — Moksha — freedom from the endless cycle of birth and death. And Liberation leads to Unification — the merging of the individual Soul with the Supreme Immortal Power. Today, will we have a Realization that will lead to our Liberation? This is the highest use of 'Today'.

Q: What is Enlightenment?

A: Enlightenment is the state of being enlightened with the Truth — knowing who we are, knowing what God is, knowing the purpose of life. It is the Third and highest Peak of Happiness. When we are Enlightened, we are free from all the prisons of misery and suffering on earth. We are no longer enslaved by the body, the mind and the ego. We live as the Divine Soul in constant Yoga with the Divine. Enlightenment is the goal of all human life and the ultimate use of every 'Today'.

Q: How does the author describe his own Realization?

A: The author shares that in 2014, he was blessed to be enlightened with the truth. His Guru led him on a quest to realize the ultimate purpose of life. After making millions in business, he had already shut it down at age 40 to make a difference. Then came his Realization — the moment of direct experience of the Truth. From that point, his direction changed completely — away from Achievement and towards Enlightenment, Liberation and Unification. Every day since has been fully utilized in service of the Divine.

Q: What is the prison of the ego and how do we escape?

A: The prison of the ego is the false belief that we are 'I', 'me' and 'mine'. We are enslaved by the 5 senses, by the mind and finally by the ego. We are no better than criminals who are imprisoned. To escape this prison, we must drop the Ego, 'E'. When we drop the Ego, we kill ME — the Mind and Ego. M, the Mind, doesn't exist without the Ego. When we realize we are not the body and there is no mind, we transcend the 'I'. Then God-Realization is possible.

Q: What is the role of a Guru in Self-Realization?

A: A Guru or Spiritual Master is essential on the path to Self-Realization. The author himself was led on a quest by his Guru, Dada, to realize the truth about God. It was after years of sincere seeking under his Guru's guidance that the author had his Realization in 2014. A Guru is the one who takes us from 'Gu' — darkness — to 'Ru' — light. Without a Guru, the path to Self-Realization is much harder. A genuine Guru helps us overcome our ignorance and realize the Truth.

TOPIC: DEATH, SOUL AND LIBERATION

Q: Why should we not cry when someone dies?

A: We cry when we see somebody die because we are ignorant of the Truth of 'Who am I?' Every 'body' has to die. Man or beast, bird or fish, every living creature that is born will one day be gone. But we are ignorant about the simple truth that we will never die — our body will die but we are the immortal Soul. Do you realize this truth or do you cry when anybody dies? If we are ignorant of the truth, we will cry and suffer, not only at the moment of death but in every breath.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 44: Today, Will You Cry When You See Somebody Die?, Page 96-97

Q: What is death, in reality?

A: Death is when the body dies. But death is not the end — it is just a bend to transcend. Only the body dies. We never die. We are the immortal Soul. The body will disappear into the elements of nature. But the Soul — the Spark Of Unique Life — never dies. At death, either we will be reborn based on our Karma or we will be liberated and united with the Divine. Death reveals that we were never the body we thought we were — we are the eternal Soul.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 44: Today, Will You Cry When You See Somebody Die?, Page 96-97

Q: What happens after death?

A: At death, the body dies and the Soul departs. ME — the Mind and Ego — carries its Karma to a new birth on earth, if the Karma is not settled. If all Karma is transcended and we have attained Realization, the Soul is liberated and united with the Supreme Immortal Power — SIP. Either we are reborn to continue our Karmic journey, or we are liberated and united with the Divine forever. The A to Z of Death reveals that death is not the end but a moment of transformation.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 44: Today, Will You Cry When You See Somebody Die?, Page 96-97

Q: What is Liberation or Moksha?

A: Liberation — Moksha — is freedom from the cycle of birth and death. When we transcend all Karma through Realization and live as the Divine Soul, we are no longer reborn. At death, the Soul is liberated and united with the Supreme Immortal Power. This is the ultimate goal of human life. Today, will we have a Realization that will lead to our Liberation? The question is not just about today — it is about eternity. Every 'Today' is an opportunity to take one step toward Liberation.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 45: Today, Will You Have A Realization That Will Lead To Your Liberation?, Page 98-99

Q: What is the SOUL — Spark Of Unique Life?

A: SOUL stands for Spark Of Unique Life. We are the Soul — a unique spark of the Divine SIP, the Supreme Immortal Power. Many people think they have a Soul, but the truth is that we ARE the Soul. The body is not the real us — it is just a vehicle. The mind is not real — it is just a bundle of thoughts. The ego is a false identity. Our real identity is the Soul — immortal, divine, eternal. When we realize this, we are on the path to Liberation.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 50: Today, Will You Live As The Soul And Achieve Your Goal?, Page 108-109

Q: Why is the birthday actually 9 months earlier?

A: Today, we can investigate whether our certificate has the right birth date. We can realize that we were conceived 9 months before the date on our birth certificate. So, who are we in reality? There was no 'body' at conception — the body was formed later. We are the Soul that came alive at conception. The body grew inside the mother's womb. One day, this body will die and people will say we passed away. But the truth is that we — the Soul — were never born in the first place.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 33: Today, Will You Get To The Root To Realize The Truth?, Page 74-75

Q: What does living as the Soul mean in daily life?

A: Living as the Soul means not identifying with the body, mind and ego in every moment. It means responding to pain without suffering, responding to loss without despair, responding to criticism without anger. It means doing every action as a Divine instrument without attachment to results. It means seeing God in every person, every situation and every moment. When we live as the Soul, we are free free from fear, free from pain, free from the endless cycle of craving and aversion.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 50: Today, Will You Live As The Soul And Achieve Your Goal?, Page 108-109

Q: What is the true goal of human life?

A: The true goal of human life is not just to become rich and famous, successful and wealthy. Our purpose is to discover who we truly are — to realize that we are the Soul and not the body, mind and ego. We are born, we learn, we earn, we grow old and we die — but is that all? There is a greater purpose. We must find out 'Who am I?' and 'Why am I here?' If we do not discover the answer to these questions, we are no better than animals who live and die without purpose.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 52: Today, Are You Going To Find Out 'Who Am I?' Or Will You Just Wait To Die?, Page 112-113

Q: Are we the body, mind or ego?

A: We are none of these. We are not the body that was born and will die. We are not the mind — a mere bundle of thoughts that doesn't truly exist. We are not the ego — a false identity built on 'I, me and mine'. We exist beyond all of these. When the body dies, the mind disappears with the ego and the Soul is what remains. The Soul was never born and will never die. We ARE the Soul. This is the Truth that all spiritual seeking points toward.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 43: Today, Will You Be Free From The Body, The Mind And Ego, ME?, Page 94-95

Q: Why does the body die?

A: The body is a vehicle for the Soul. It is made of matter — bone, skin and flesh. Like all matter, it is subject to birth, decay and death. Every 'body' has to die. A human being can live up to 100 years, a dog about 10 years and a butterfly 2 weeks. But one day, when the Soul departs, the body experiences death because there will be no breath. The body dies but we — the Soul — do not die. Death reveals what is temporary and what is eternal.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 52: Today, Are You Going To Find Out 'Who Am I?' Or Will You Just Wait To Die?, Page 112

Q: What is Unification?

A: Unification is the merging of the individual Soul with the Supreme Immortal Power — SIP. After Liberation — freedom from the cycle of birth and death — the Soul, which was always a part of SIP, returns to SIP. Just as a drop of water merges into the ocean and becomes the ocean, the liberated Soul merges into God and becomes one with the Divine. This is the ultimate destination of the Soul's journey — Unification with SIP, the Supreme Immortal Power.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 45: Today, Will You Have A Realization That Will Lead To Your Liberation?, Page 98-99

Q: Why should we not fear death?

A: We should not fear death because the real us — the Soul — never dies. The fear of death stops us from living life fully. We are paralyzed, always protecting ourselves, always worried about what might happen. But FEAR is a False Expectation Appearing Real. When we realize we are the immortal Soul, the fear of death dissolves completely. Death is not the end — it is a bend to transcend. When we overcome the fear of death, we start to truly live.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 4: Today, Will You Live With Fear Or Cheer?, Page 16

Q: What is the purpose of a human birth?

A: The purpose of a human birth is to realize the Truth — to discover who we are, why we came to earth and how to attain Liberation. Except for human beings, all other creatures just exist — they live and die without a higher purpose. Only human beings have been given the gift of intelligence and the capacity for Self-Realization. If we do not use this gift to discover the Truth, we have wasted our human birth. Every 'Today' is an opportunity to use this gift.

Q: What happens when we live only for achievement and ignore the Soul?

A: When we live only for achievement and ignore the Soul, we empty the glass of life and fill it with money. In the end, we have a glass full of money but there is no life left in our glass. Then of what use is all the money? We cannot take even a penny with us when we die. When we are so caught in our earthly role and just stroll through life, we miss our ultimate goal — to realize we are the Soul. We live and die as the body, having never discovered our true identity.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 32: Today, Will You Just Make Money Or Make A Difference?, Page 72-73

Q: Why does the book say death is not 'The End' but 'The Bend'?

A: Death is called a bend rather than the end because when we come to a bend in a road, we don't stop — we turn and continue our journey in a new direction. So also at death, the body ends its journey but the Soul continues. At death, either we will be reborn in a new body based on our Karma — the Soul continuing its journey of Self-Realization — or we will be liberated and united with the Divine. Either way, the Soul's journey continues beyond the bend of death.

TOPIC: PURPOSE, GIVING NAD MAKING A DIFFERENCE

Q: What is the purpose of life?

A: Our purpose in life is to discover, 'Who am I?' I am not the body, mind and ego — I am the Divine Soul, a Spark Of Unique Life. We arrive 9 months before our so-called birthday and we are the immortal Soul. Life is a drama and most of us live with trauma because we don't realize its true meaning. Our purpose is to realize this Truth and attain Liberation. Everything else — success, wealth, relationships — are just part of the drama. Discovering the Truth is the real purpose.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 40: Today, Will You Live Your Life With Purpose Or Make It A Circus?, Page 88-89

Q: What happens when we have no purpose in life?

A: When we don't have a purpose in life, our life becomes a circus. In a circus, clowns are supposed to behave like fools so that their foolishness makes us laugh. But this is not our purpose in life. Without purpose, we live and die like clowns — dancing in a circus, entertaining others, having no deeper meaning. Those who treasure life and live each day with purpose, they don't live and die like clowns dancing in a circus. Purpose gives life its meaning and direction.

Q: Why must we give before we are gone?

A: Give before you are gone. You don't have a choice — if you don't give, it will anyway be snatched away. Open your eyes and realize that you come with nothing and you will go with nothing. Nothing belongs to you. We earn and earn but we cannot take even a penny when we die. Others will burn what we earn. But when we give as we live — our time, our money, our love, our knowledge — we create a legacy of goodness and our life achieves its true purpose.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 25: Today, Will You Just Live Or Will You Give?, Page 58-59

Q: What is the joy of giving?

A: There is joy when we spend — when we give to others, when we help, when we serve. But we don't realize this before our end. Ironically, people are making money every day, till their last day of existence. Soon, they are gone and they cannot take with them even a penny. Still, they are busy making money. The truth is that not in making money but in spending money — in giving — that life achieves its purpose. Today, we must seize the opportunity to give before we are gone.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 32: Today, Will You Just Make Money Or Make A Difference?, Page 72-73

Q: How can we make a difference with our 'Today'?

A: We can make a difference today by choosing to give rather than just take, by serving others, by spreading love and wisdom, by doing good Karma. The world has many philanthropists who are spending their wealth on noble causes. We can make a difference in someone's life today — through a kind word, a helping hand, a generous act. Not only material possessions but even knowledge must be shared. Whatever gifts we have received in our life, we must enjoy them and then give them to others.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 25: Today, Will You Just Live Or Will You Give?, Page 58-59

Q: Is making money a good use of 'Today'?

A: Making money is not a bad thing in itself but when it becomes the sole purpose of life, it is a waste of 'Today'. We empty the glass of life and fill our glass with money. In the end, we have a glass full of money but there is no life left in our glass. Then of what use is all the money? Today, the question is not 'How much money will I make?' but 'Will I just make money or make a difference?' Making a difference is the higher use of our 1440 minutes.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 32: Today, Will You Just Make Money Or Make A Difference?, Page 72-73

Q: What is true wealth?

A: True wealth is not money, possessions or fame. True wealth is the wisdom of knowing who we are. True wealth is the experience of Divine bliss. True wealth is the good Karma we have accumulated through love, kindness and service. True wealth is the peace that comes from stillness of mind. True wealth is the connection we build with the Divine through prayer and Yoga. All material wealth we accumulate must be left behind. Only true wealth — of Soul and Spirit — goes with us.

Q: What is the 4 Quarters of Life concept?

A: Life can be divided into 4 Quarters. The First Quarter is about Learning — school, college, acquiring knowledge. The Second Quarter is about Earning — career, building a family, accumulating wealth. The Third and Fourth Quarters are meant for us to attain the ultimate goal of life — Enlightenment — which very few people do. Most people spend all 4 quarters in learning and earning, missing the highest purpose. We must use our 'Today' wisely so that we don't miss the Third and Fourth Quarter's true calling.

Q: What is the inner light and how do we switch it on?

A: The inner light is the light of wisdom and Truth within us. When we enter a dark room, we can't sweep away the darkness with a broom — we have to switch on the light. Similarly, we can't remove the darkness of ignorance with more ignorance — we have to switch on the inner light. We switch on the inner light by asking the right questions, by seeking the Truth, by going on a Spiritual quest. Today, are we going to overcome darkness and discover the inner light?

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 26: Today, Will There Be Darkness Inside Or Will You Light The Inner Light?, Page 60-61

Q: What is the importance of switching on the inner light today?

A: Today, if we do not light the inner light within, we will die in ignorance as the one made of bone and skin. We have blindly lived in ignorance, and we have let darkness fill our inner lives. We have not paused to switch on the light so that we can be enlightened with the truth. Not just birth but also death remains a mystery that fills our history. Every day we delay switching on the inner light is another day lost to the darkness of ignorance. Today is the day to switch it on.

Q: What does it mean to live with purpose versus living like in a circus?

A: Living with purpose means knowing why we are here, what we are meant to do and working toward the ultimate goal of Realization every single day. Living like in a circus means being a clown — entertaining others, doing meaningless things, reacting to everything, being caught in the drama without realizing it is a drama. Those who live with purpose use every 'Today' as a step toward Enlightenment. Those living in the circus just go around in circles until life ends.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 40: Today, Will You Live Your Life With Purpose Or Make It A Circus?, Page 88-89

Q: What is the difference between living and merely existing?

A: Look around. What do you see? Everybody is alive but how many people are truly living their life? People wake up in the morning and they consume the day. But how many are actually making the best of their day? Merely existing means going through the motions — eating, sleeping, working, entertainment — without purpose, without awareness, without growth. Truly living means using every moment with intention, awareness and love, moving every day toward the ultimate goal of Realization.

Q: Why should we go on a spiritual quest?

A: We don't go on a quest to understand what is happening, why it is happening and who is making it happen. Although we see that apples can't grow on mango trees, we are not curious enough to discover the Universal Laws by which creation is governed. We must go on a quest and put every belief to test. Today, we can continue to believe the myths we have grown up with, or we can stop and ask questions, investigate and realize the truth. Spiritual seeking is the highest use of our intelligence.

Q: What is the author's mission?

A: AiR's only mission in life is 'To help people discover the way to Eternal Happiness through Enlightenment.' He was a successful businessman who revolutionized retailing in India, only to shut down everything at age 40 and start making a difference — doing H.I.S. work: Humanitarian, Inspirational and Spiritual. He conducts webinars and 'ASK AiR' sessions every day on Zoom and Facebook Live to help people realize the ultimate purpose of their life. Every day is dedicated to this single purpose.

Q: What does it mean to 'light the inner light' in practical terms?

A: To light the inner light in practical terms means: asking the question 'Who am I?' and sincerely seeking the answer. It means reading books on Spirituality, attending talks by enlightened masters, meditating and praying, questioning our beliefs, going on a Talaash — a spiritual quest. It means choosing to investigate the truth rather than blindly believing in myths. It means choosing Enlightenment over entertainment, wisdom over wealth, Self-Realization over social media. Today is the day to start.

TOPIC: LIFE AS DARMA AND ENLIGHTENED LIVING

Q: Why is life called a drama?

A: This earth is a stage. Life is a show. We are actors who come and go. If we don't realize that everything that happens in life is a drama, then we will suffer the trauma of this illusory world. How many of us realize that this world is a drama? When we go to a hotel room, we admire and enjoy the comfort but when we check out, we don't take the television and other things with us. They do not belong to us. We are guests in this world. Our purpose is not to possess it but to realize the Truth.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 14: Today, Will You Enjoy The Drama Or Suffer Trauma?, Page 36

Q: What is the triple suffering?

A: We experience triple suffering as the body, mind and ego. First, the body suffers physical pain. Second, the mind suffers misery through thoughts of fear, worry, stress, anxiety, guilt and regret. Third, the ego suffers agony through anger, hate, revenge, jealousy and desire. There is nobody on earth who takes birth and escapes this triple suffering. But when we realize we are neither the body, mind nor ego — that we are the Divine Soul — we are freed from all three types of suffering.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 28: Today, Will You Let Pain Make You Unhappy Again?, Page 64-65

Q: How should we watch a drama without suffering its trauma?

A: When we go to a movie and our favourite actor dies on screen, we know there is no need to cry — the actor is not really dead. Similarly, when we realize that life is a drama, we can enjoy the show without suffering the trauma. We are actors playing our roles. When we realize this, we act our parts well but we are not lost in the role. We are the witness — the observer. As the witness, we enjoy the drama without being swept away by it.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 14: Today, Will You Enjoy The Drama Or Suffer Trauma?, Page 36-37

Q: What is enlightened living?

A: Enlightened living means living as the Divine Soul while still playing our role in the drama of life. It means being in Yoga — constantly connected to the Divine. It means responding rather than reacting, giving rather than taking, serving rather than being served. It means being free from attachments, free from fear, free from the constant chatter of the monkey mind. An enlightened person uses every 'Today' in joyful awareness, knowing that each moment is a gift from the Divine.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Afterword, Page 114-115

Q: What is the meaning of life being a cosmic drama?

A: Life is a Cosmic Drama — whatever is happening in life is not ultimately real; it is an illusory show. If we understand this simple truth, we can enjoy the show called life without suffering its traumas. We are all actors who have come and will go. The roles we play — rich or poor, successful or struggling, healthy or sick — are just costumes. The real us — the Soul — is the eternal actor who has played many roles across many lifetimes. Realizing this frees us from the suffering of the drama.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 14: Today, Will You Enjoy The Drama Or Suffer Trauma?, Page 36-37

Q: What is detached attachment?

A: Detached attachment means acting fully in the world — loving, working, serving — but without clinging to outcomes or being devastated by loss. We are attached to doing our best but detached from the results. We love people deeply but know that we don't own them. We work hard but know that the fruits are in God's hands. The 10 Commandments of Detached Attachment can liberate us from all attachments. If only we learn to live with detachment, we can be free from the suffering of loss.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 42: Today, Will You Live With Attachment Or As A Divine Instrument?, Page 92

Q: What is the difference between celebration and desperation?

A: Celebration is the natural state of one who lives with awareness, gratitude and love — filling every moment with joy, faith and PEP. Desperation is the state of one who is caught in the mind — full of fear, regret, worry and NEP. Today, we have a choice. Our mind will fill our day with desperation if we let it. But if we stop and make 'Today' a celebration — smiling, laughing, counting blessings, living with faith and compassion — then desperation cannot enter.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 41: Today, Will You Make It A Celebration Or Live In Desperation?, Page 90-91

Q: What does it mean to live in the NOW?

A: Living in the NOW means being fully present in this moment — not in the past with regret, not in the future with worry, but here, now, alive, aware and awake. Neither is life a journey from birth to death nor is it the number of years we live on earth. Life is about 'now', this moment. If we lose this moment, we lose life. Most of us don't live — we just exist. To live is to be fully present, moment by moment, in the eternal NOW. This is what the gift of 'Today' truly means.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 36: Today, Will You Sleep And Weep Through Life?, Page 80-81

Q: What is the significance of sleep and how should we relate to it?

A: Sleep is a restorative process — it restores our body and mind. But the author realized he was sleeping too much and reduced his sleep from 7-8 hours to 5 hours a day, without losing quality of life. When we sleep too much, we lose precious minutes of our 'Today'. The question is: are we going to waste 1440 minutes of today in excess sleep and then weep for the lost time? We must sleep what is necessary for restoration, and use the rest of our 'Today' fully and consciously.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 36: Today, Will You Sleep And Weep Through Life?, Page 80-81

Q: What universal laws govern our life?

A: This world is managed by God through certain Universal Laws. The Law of Gravity — if you throw a ball up, it automatically comes down. The Law of Cycles — the earth completes one rotation in exactly 24 hours. The Law of Karma — as you sow, so shall you reap. Isn't it true that the earth rotates precisely once in 24 hours? Who is causing this? How does this happen? These laws need no intervention by the Creator. The universe operates perfectly through these Divine laws.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 34: Today, Will You Go On A Quest And Put Every Belief To Test?, Page 76

Q: What is the connection between 'Today' and eternity?

A: Every 'Today' contains eternity within it. As the opening poem says: 'Just a tiny little minute, but eternity is in it!' When we fully live in the NOW — when we are completely present, aware and connected to the Divine — we step outside of time. We touch eternity. The soul that realizes the Truth experiences no past and no future — only the eternal NOW. Every moment of 'Today', when lived in full awareness, is a doorway to the timeless, eternal Truth of who we are.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Opening Poem, Page 5

Q: What is the Purification-Illumination-Realization-Liberation-Unification path?

A: This is the path to Enlightenment. It starts with Purification — cleansing our mind, heart and actions of negativity. This leads to Illumination — the mind begins to see the light of Truth. Illumination leads to Realization — the direct experience of who we truly are. Realization leads to Liberation — freedom from the cycle of birth and death. And Liberation leads to Unification — the merging of our Soul with the Supreme Immortal Power. Will 'Today' have a Divine Realization? Will there be Liberation leading to Unification?

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Poem, Page 119

Q: What does the author mean when he says 'I am a great miser with time'?

A: The author says: 'When it comes to spending my time, I am a great miser. I don't even give a minute to anybody to waste, because for me, my minute is my most precious possession.' He even tracks how much time he sleeps and gradually reduced it from 7-8 hours to 5 hours to have more awake minutes of 'Today'. This shows the depth of his understanding of the preciousness of each minute. Every minute is a diamond. A miser protects his treasure — we must protect our time.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Chapter 36: Today, Will You Sleep And Weep Through Life?, Page 80-81

Q: Why does the book end with 'What are you going to do with Today?'

A: The book ends with this question as an eternal call to action. The biggest gift of life has just appeared in our hands — 'Today'. That is why it is called the 'Present'. What are we going to do with 'Today'? Are we going to make the best of today or just let it pass away? 'Today' will not wait for us — so use it or lose it. Unfortunately, we let 'Today' slip away and don't realize that our life itself has escaped us. The question is both a warning and an invitation.

Source: What Are You Going To Do With Today?, Back Cover, Page 150

Q: What is the message of the song/poem at the end of the book?

A: The poem at the end of the book is a series of powerful questions that summarize the entire book. It asks about every dimension of 'Today' — will you be glad or sad, in Yoga or Bhoga, will you give or just live, will you be enlightened or drunk in wine, will you realize God or believe the lie? The poem asks: 'Will there be Purification that leads to Illumination? Will Today have a Divine Realization? Will there be Liberation that leads to Unification?' It is a profound daily examination of how we use our 'Today'.
